BOOKS AND NOTIONS

for Christmas, 1893.

Published by

The Raphael Tuck & Sons Co.
"Limited."

No. 368 Broadway, New York.

"CHRISTMAS COMES BUT ONCE A YEAR!" and well for us that it is so, otherwise our peace of mind would soon be a thing of the past. Already it claims for us every working day in the year, many of which, it must be admitted, do not come within the eight, ten, or even twelve hours' limit. Yet we are far from complaining, for if the midnight lamp has often enough burned in its service, the labor has been one of intense interest, and we feel ourselves more than requited now that we have the results before us, presented in the enticing form of our completed collection of CHRISTMAS and NEW YEAR CARDS for 1893-94.

Are we to plead guilty to a pardonable pride or fatherly affecton, or to an admixture of both? But examine as critically as we will, compare with minds as unbiased as we may, the impression that has gradually grown upon us during its progress is now more than confirmed, and we dare stake our reputation upon it, that this, our latest Christmas Card collection, stands out in bold relief from all its predecessors as the most notable, the most original, and the most varied it has ever been our favored lot to submit to our friends.

Many hundred sets, mustering upwards of 1200 distinct designs, vieing with each other in laudable rivalry. Each and all present distinct and novel features of their own.

The artistic form, the simple charm, and the rich effects will be appreciated as soon as seen.

As in styles, so in regard to prices. The world-wide demand for our publications enables us to calculate on large editions, and thus bring down the individual cost of our artistic productions often enough below the level of commonplace goods.

The mottoes, quotations and verses, both secular and religious, have had in all cases the most careful editing.

In reference to our

Illustrated Books, Booklets, Toy Books and Calendars for 1893=94.

the advance made by us in the range and quality of the entire collection will be found no less notable than in the case of our Christmas and New Year Cards.

We are placing upon the market this season over 200 new publications, from the cheapest Child's Toy Book to the most splendidly illustrated Juvenile, and from the delicate minature Booklet to the high-class illustrated Gift Book, headed by a beautiful volume of Tennyson's "Heroes and Heroines," of which Lord Tennyson has accepted the dedication: all giving full evidence of the spirit annimating our efforts in this department of our Art Publications.

In connection with some of these Books, we are inaugurating a HIGHLY INTERESTING COMPETITION upon entirely original lines, in which VALUABLE PRIZES will be awarded. Particulars of this our third and most important Competition, will be found on Page 9, of this Catalogue, and we doubt not but that, as in the case of our Christmas Card Competition thirteen years ago, and our Study and Art Competition three years back, this LITERARY AND ART PRIZE COMPETITION FOR YOUNG PEOPLE will prove a lasting benefit to the Public, the Trade and ourselves,

Yours faithfully,

RAPHAEL TUCK & SONS CO., "LIMITED"

368 Broadway, NEW YORK.

FROM THE AMERICAN STATIONER,

May 11th, 1893.

"The Raphael Tuck & Sons Company announce a literary competition which has decidedly novel points and which ought to be an educational factor with the children of this country. The house has published four beautiful books, handsomely illustrated in color and monotint, the titles of which are : "Told by the Sunbeams and Me." "Sunny Tales for Snowy Days." All But One or Told by the Flowers." and "Peeps into Pictureland." Apparently these Books are constructed in the regular way, showing all the beauties of fine Lithographic and Typographic work, with clever artistic and literary contributors, but a closer inspection shows that the last full page picture has no descriptive matter accompanying it, and that the several pages following it are blank, the first bearing only the title, "My Prize Story." In the front of the book is a coupon on a perforated stub, together with the rules of the competition. Tuck's proposition is that each boy and girl in the country, having purchased a book, both for its own merit and also to possess the coupon, shall unaided write his or her "Prize Story," the text being written so that the colored plate furnished shall be a suitable illustration for it. The manuscript of the story written by each child is then forwarded to the Raphael Tuck & Sons Company, having attached to it the coupon from the book, and the stories possessing the most merit will win the prizes. The house offers $1500. in prizes, divided as follows ; First prize, $100. for the best story written by the purchaser of "Told by the Sunbeams and Me," and one hundred and two other prizes, aggregating $500.; a first prize of $75. to the best story written by a purchaser of "Sunny Tales for Snowy Days," and ninety other prizes, aggregating $400.; a first prize of $50. to the best story written by a purchaser of "All but One, or Told by the Flowers," and eighty-four other prizes aggregating $350.; a first prize of $30. to the best story written by a purchaser of "Peeps into Pictureland" and eighty-four other prizes aggregating $250. The writers of the stories can copy their work on the blank pages of the books, and thus have one of their own productions illustrated by Tuck, besides having an opportunity of winning a very substantial money prize. The proposeed plan presents opportunities for the trade, of which advantage should be promptly taken. The Raphael Tuck & Sons Company will supply circulars, giving full details of this competition together with window display signs, etc. The books themselves are the highest order of Juvenile publications, and would undoubtedly have a very wide sale, but the proposition made by the house offers inducements which every dealer should look into at once."

Sacred Hours with Young Christians is a practical and suggestive volume, discussing in an easy, conversational manner a number of subjects which are pertinent to the beginning of an earnest and useful Christian life. The author, Bishop James W. Hott, D.D., has quite accomplished his desire, and laid some grains of gold on the pathway to enrich young travelers on their heavenward journey. The book has an introduction full of pithy remarks by Rev. Theo. L. Cuyler.—New York Observer.

Bishop Hott, for years the able editor of the Religious Telescope, wields a facile pen. His is a warm and tender heart, overflowing with sympathy for young life. * * * His present volume is timely. —— Getting Ready for a Revival. Its purpose is to emphasize for pastor and people the importance of wise preparation for the special services held in almost every church with more or less frequency. The book has three parts: The Preacher's Preparation; The Preparation of the Church; General Preparation. To all is added a careful index. A handsome volume of 164 pages, bound in cloth..... 75

"This is an excellent little volume. The practical suggestions cannot but prove of great value and importance."—Christian at Work.

—— The Gospel Worker's Treasury, or Hymn and Revival Anecdotes, Texts, Subjects, Outlines, and Scripture Readings. Compiled by Rev. E. S. Lorenz, B. D. Over 150 popular hymns find anecdotal illustration in this book. Over 700 anecdotes particularly adapted to revival work are here gathered. Over 500 texts, themes, and outlines yield the preacher or speaker a rich mine of fresh and suggestive matter. The indexes are full and complete.
Large 12mo, 387 pages, well bound in cloth..... 1 50

"'The Gospel Worker's Treasury' far exceeds in real value any that we have ever used or seen. His 'Hymn Illustrations' are magnificent, and wonderfully attest the power of gospel song. His 'Revival Illustrations' are adapted to every occasion, and will serve to make the strongest man stronger and more effective in his work. We have seen no recent work that we can more heartily commend to our ministry as being the thing most needed just now. Obtain it, and you will confirm our judgment."—Herald of Gospel Liberty.

"The selections have been carefully and judiciously made; the anecdotes are entirely free from flippancy and levity. Each has its sharp point, and the volume will be read with unabated interest. To one who understands the 'art of putting things,' it may be drawn upon for material to give point and force to a moral or an appeal."—Interior.

"I have not been trying to read the book, but really I cannot keep from reading it. It helps me to see things which I could not understand before. I have read many books on the Holy Land, and the best I could secure. My studies as a teacher have necessarily enlisted me greatly in such books, and yet this one is clearer than any book I have read on the Holy Land. What is remarkable in my home is the fact that my family did not allow it to be taken to my study, there to remain. But they all read it with like interest.—Dr. L. Davis, Union Biblical Seminary.

The Great Invasion;

Or, General Lee in Pennsylvania. By Jacob Hoke. This history is the only complete and detailed one yet given to the public upon one of the greatest campaigns of our late Civil War. It not only gives the details of the three days of terrible battle of Gettysburg, but it embraces a complete summary of events which transpired within the two great opposing armies from the time of the departure from their encampments on the Rappahannock, in Virginia, until they stood face to face upon the soil of Pennsylvania, and until they again, after the tremendous ordeal at Gettysburg, recrossed the Potomac and resumed their former positions.

The book is an octavo, printed on first-class, highly-finished paper, from clear, open type, with fine maps, and a large number of choice illustrations, and is handsomely bound in the following styles:
Fine cloth, black and gold stamp on sides and back, plain edges, $3.00.
Fine cloth, black and gold stamp on sides and back, gilt edges, $3.75.
Leather, black and gold stamp on sides and back, gilt edges, $4.50.

In Stock, regularly, 1 to 10,000.

The one-quarter inch numbers are printed with dark blue ink on white paper, gummed and perforated. There are 100 numbers on a sheet and 100 different sheets, thus making up the numbers from 1 to 10,000. Any even hundred supplied. See about combination numbers on page 13.

Each number of the one-quarter inch size, from 1 to 1000, is also sold separately, 100 of each number put up in little envelopes. In this way we can supply 100 of all No. 1, or 100 of any number, from 1 to 1000, per 100, 5 cents.

ABOVE 10,000. If many thousands are wanted the price would be very much less. Where numbers above 10,000 are wanted, we furnish them by stamping them in, on our prepared blanks. The appearance of the numbers is almost the same, and in this way we can supply them in consecutive order, from where our stock numbers stop.

(10,000), up to 100,000. Any even hundred. The cost is greater, of course. About $1 per 1000.

COMPOUND LABELS. The most of the labels made to order for the libraries are of the compound form, i. e., the label is double the height of the one-quarter inch number label and one-third wider. In the upper division of the label (the numerators' place) we print the class number, leaving the lower half of the label (the denominators' place) blank —to be filled in with ink at the libraries. In this way the "Amherst or Dewey system" is carried out by sticking on one label only.

Many libraries are having their number labels made to order for them in the compound form shown above. They are gummed if desired, and are put up in little envelopes 100 of a kind in each. The cost varies with the quantity ordered, from.....30 cents per 1000, upward

LABELS NOT GUMMED. If the libraries prefer such numbers not gummed, we can usually furnish them so; though the gum is no objection, as the labels may be put on in the same manner whether gummed or not gummed. Of course, the labels that are not gummed will keep more safely, as they do not become so "stuck up" in damp weather.

The lettered label is used so much that we keep it in stock and can supply any letter wanted by the hundred. They are put up in envelopes in the same manner as the numbered labels above.....per 100, 5 cents.

SPECIAL LABELS. We make special labels for large libraries any way they want them, and if in large lots the cost is no greater than for the regular numbers.

OF THE

EVERETT WADDEY CO., Richmond, Va.

A History of the United States of America,

INTENDED FOR STUDENTS IN SCHOOLS, ACADEMIES, COLLEGES, UNIVERSITIES AND AT HOME, AND FOR GENERAL READERS. By Robert Reid Howison, author of "A History of Virginia," and other works, and Corresponding Member of the Virginia Historical Society. Small Octavo, 936 pp. Price: Cloth, $1.50; Half Morocco, $2.00.

The aim of the author has been to embrace in one volume a minute and comprehensive statement and view of all the really important facts in our history; to give the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, on all the subjects which make up the soul and body of the history of the United States; to demonstrate that the civilization of the United States is based on the principles of Democracy, and that when properly controlled by morality the people of any country can govern themselves by their chosen representatives; to prove that the doctrine of the separate sovereignty and rights of the States underlies the whole structure of the government of the United States, and that if this foundation be destroyed the whole structure will fall into hopeless ruin; but to prove also that although the right of each State to secede from the Union, for sufficient cause, existed, yet a compact or treaty of Union also existed, and all the States had sovereign right to judge concerning the sufficiency of the cause.

In its preparation he has availed himself of the labors and researches of the latest writers, and one admirable feature of the work is the copious reference to the authorities relied on for the statements made in the text.

"I have sufficiently examined Howison's 'Student's History of the United States' to commend it warmly to schools and colleges for its lucid arrangement, clear style, and accuracy in its detail of facts. Without being a sectional book it is fair to the North and just to the South as to the period of their conflict.

"The history is full, but not diffuse. Its annals of original colonization, of the revolutionary separation of the colonies, of the confederation articles, of the Constitution of 1787-'9, and its sketch of the progress and contests of our century of Union make the book an admirable and comprehensive compendium of the progress of our States from 1607 to 1890. Students in schools and colleges will have in it a text-book, accurate and ample in its details for all their purposes."—Hon. John Randolph Tucker, Prof. of Law, Washington and Lee University, Lexington, Va.

"Though I have not yet found opportunity to give it the reading its importance demands, I am able to say that it is far superior to any on the market. In style and language employed it is a model of what such a book should be. We have adopted it as a text-book in this college."—Hon. Lyon G. Tyler, President of William and Mary College, Virginia.

"With Howison's History at hand, the school-teacher, the ambitious student, and the general reader may well dispense with the more elaborate and partisan works of Bancroft and Hildreth."—Virginia School Journal.

Factor and Product,

THE ESSENTIAL TERMS OF ARITHMETIC. By R. C. Ingalls. Cloth, 12 mo., 110 pp. Price: 60 cents.

This work is designed chiefly for use in our common schools as an adjunct to any and all text-books on the science of numbers.

THE MOTHER'S HAND-BOOK.

A PRACTICAL TREATISE ON THE MANAGEMENT OF CHILDREN IN HEALTH AND DISEASE; with an appendix containing articles on diseases that may suddenly attack grown persons. By LEVIN J. WOOLLEN, M. D. Octavo, 422 pp. Price: Cloth, $2.25; Library Sheep, $2.75.

This is a book that should find a place in every family. It has been written from a professional standpoint, by a practicing physician of over thirty years' experience, and in such a manner as to make its meaning perfectly plain to any person of average intelligence. Elegantly printed in full octavo size, and bound in library sheep, with marbled edges; also, in full cloth.

"The family physician often wants to be able to recommend a reliable work to the mothers in his practice, guiding them in the proper physical care of their children. Without attempting to give an exhaustive review, it is sufficient to say that we can heartily recommend this book for that purpose. * * * With this book in the library and "Babyhood" the mother's intelligence could be so cultivated that she would be an efficient aid to the physician in even the severest cases."—Medical World, Philadelphia.

"This book is what it claims to be—a practical treatise on the management of children in health and disease. It is questionable how much good is done by this class of books, because they frequently fall into the hands of those who are not able to understand them; but, on the other hand, it cannot be denied that to an intelligent mother who recognizes the fact that its object is not to transform her into a physician, but simply to guide her in the rules of health, the work may be of great value. The present volume is the best we have seen of its kind, because it deals chiefly with such subjects as nursing, feeding, personal and family hygiene, while it has little to say about medicine. The chapter on infant feeding is excellent, and contains much information that is absolutely necessary to the nursing mother."—Occidental Medical Times, Sacramento, Cal.

Yankee Doodle Dixie,

OR, LOVE THE LIGHT OF LIFE. Full cloth, 12 mo., 540 pp. Price: $1.25. An Historical Romance, illustrative of life and love in an old Virginia country home, containing also an explanatory account of the passions, prejudices and opinions which culminated in the civil war. By J. V. RYALS, of Virginia.

"The style of the book is smooth, poetical, graceful and graphic. * * * Skillfully blending the fictitious characters of the novel, with the true characters and events of history, clearly and concisely setting forth the circumstances, passions and sectional prejudices which culminated in the late civil war, it should serve to bring about a more kindly feeling between the survivors of the Blue and the Gray."

SMITH'S PRACTICAL SINGLE ENTRY BOOK-KEEPING,

MALLADOCE, THE BRITON.

A TALE OF THE JUDSON MISSION.—By Rev. Robert N. Barrett, Pastor Bethel Baptist Church, Fairview, Ky. Full cloth, 12 mo., 358 pp. Price, $1.25.

"The story has something of the flavor of Ben-Hur about it. The narrative flows freely, affording opportune statements of facts and doctrine, and abounding in pleasing descriptive effects."—Seminary Magazine, Louisville, Ky.

LIFE AND TIMES OF

C. G. Memminger,

Late Secretary of the Treasury, C. S. A. By Henry D. Capers, A. M. Royal Octavo, 604 pp., Beautifully Illustrated with Original Engravings. Price: Full Cloth, $3.00; Library Sheep, Marbled Edges, $3.50; Half Turkey, Gilt Top, $4.00.

This able biography recommends itself. Coming from an accomplished author, the secretary of Mr. Memminger, it is a truthful record of the life of a great and noble man. All who remember Mr. Memminger's efforts in behalf of the "Lost Cause" should endeavor to aid the author in the laudable effort he has made to keep his memory green, and should see that every public and private library is provided with a copy. The work contains an exhaustive treatise on the Banking System of the United States, a full and complete history of the financial policy of the Confederate Treasury Department, a full synopsis of the great case of the State vs. The Bank of South Carolina, and the argument of Mr. Memminger in that case; it is full of interest and information, and contains the true inspiration of a noble life for youth to emulate and manhood to follow.

Anthropology for the People.

A REFUTATION OF THE THEORY OF THE ADAMIC ORIGIN OF ALL RACES. By Caucasian. 12 mo., 334 pp. Price: Full cloth, $1.50.

This book is a timely contribution to the literature of the day, upon a subject which is one of the most important, if not the most important, now before the American people. The author claims to speak with some degree of authority, from long and intimate knowledge of the negro race, both as slaves and freemen. Much that he writes is the result of his own observation, and while his position is one apparently hostile to the negro, he disclaims any such feeling, and insists that in his conclusions he is governed by a sense of right and justice and a sufficient warrant of facts; and that with no interest to serve but truth, he has endeavored to judge fairly and write conscientiously. He, writes anonymously, not because he shrinks from adverse criticism, but because what he has to say should go forth without prejudice, favorable or unfavorable, and no personality should attach to it.

Tom and Joe.

TWO FARMER BOYS IN LOVE AND WAR AND PEACE. A Louisana Memory. By Clarence B. Collins, the "The Tom Sawyer" of the Florida Press. Full Cloth, 12 mo., 260 pp. Price, $1.00.

Of this book it has been very truly said: "To the middle-aged and the old of our dear Southland it will bring back that happy period when our country lived its golden age—the glorious summer day that closed in storm and darkness; to the young it tells how their ancestors lived and loved and died; to those who loved and still love the "Lost Cause," it will recall the tenderest memories of a lifetime."

Attorney's Suit

Collection Record

. . A NECESSITY WITH EVERY LAWYER.

. . The Cheapest as well as the Best Book for this purpose now on the Market.

It is made of Standard Linen Ledger Paper, bound with American-Russia Back and Corners, Cloth Sides, and Contains a Full Index ; has 150 leaves, providing space for a complete record of 450 cases. Price, $2.50.

THIS BOOK has now been through five editions, and grows more popular each year it is in use. We, therefore, ask an examination of it by attorneys, with a confidence which is not born of theory—a confidence which has the seal of approval of some of the best lawyers in the country.

It enables an attorney with the least possible expenditure of time and labor to keep a full and complete record of every claim received for collection, the date and amount of each payment made thereon, amount of costs and charges, and balance remitted or paid over. When suit is brought it furnishes in compact form room for names of witnesses, authorities, proceedings in the case, date and amount of judgment, &c.; in short, it is a complete history of the case from its inception until finally disposed of, and dispenses entirely with the necessity of keeping other account books for this class of business. The busy attorney is enabled to keep all business of this class together, where it is easily accessible, each case being readily referred to by means of the index.

Size of open page, eleven by seventeen inches, making a book eight and three-quarters by eleven and a quarter inches, which can be conveniently carried in an ordinary satchel, yet large enough to contain a complete record of FOUR HUNDRED AND FIFTY CASES.

Note the following Extracts from Testimonials from Prominent Members of the Legal Profession in Virginia.

"I have used 'Collection Registers' furnished by New York and St. Louis firms, and in connection with them an 'Attorney's Office Docket,' but, in my judgment, your 'Attorney's Collection Record' is the very best yet presented to the legal profession, because it combines in one book a Collection Register and Office Docket, and at a cost of less than half charged me by other publishers for these books separately."—CHARLES EDGAR NICOL, Esq., Brentsville, Va.

"It enables the working-lawyer to keep in the smallest space and most convenient form a complete and accurate record of every claim in his hands, showing at a glance the exact status and every particular connected with it. It fills completely a want long felt, and as soon as its advantages become generally known, will be an indispensable adjunct to the outfit of every lawyer's office."—JACKSON & PENDLETON, Richmond, Va.

"Your 'Attorney's Suit and Collection Record' is of great value to me. I consider it superior, in many of its features, to any other that I have used."—GEORGE A. MUSHBACH, Alexandria, Va.

"The Everett Waddey Company's 'Attorney's Suit and Collection Record' is absolutely indispensable to a lawyer having any collection business. It saves a great deal of time and money."—Hon. W. H. MANN, Nottoway Courthouse, Va.

"I find your 'Attorney's Collection Record' a great convenience, and unless you put booming prices on it I will never in future be without one."—GREENLEE D. LETCHER, Lexington, Va.

"I find it invaluable. At a glance it gives you the status of any claim, and also collections and remittances thereon."—EPPA HUNTON, Jr., Warrenton, Va.

"I have found it a wonderful time-saver. By spending a few moments each day in posting it, I am always able to find exactly what I may want to know about a claim without searching a large bundle of papers."—R. W SHULTICE, Esq., Mathews Courthouse, Va.

"It is simple, plain and practical—just the thing a lawyer needs. It keeps his accounts and records and the proceedings of his law suits. It does everything necessary, but will not collect bad debts."—SOL. CUTCHINS, Richmond, Va.

A History of the United States of America,

INTENDED FOR STUDENTS IN SCHOOLS, ACADEMIES, COLLEGES, UNIVERSITIES AND AT HOME, AND FOR GENERAL READERS. By Robert Reid Howison, author of "A History of Virginia," and other works, and Corresponding Member of the Virginia Historical Society. Small Octavo, 936 pp. Price: Cloth, $1.50; Half Morocco, $2.00.

The aim of the author has been to embrace in one volume a minute and comprehensive statement and view of all the really important facts in our history; to give the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, on all the subjects which make up the soul and body of the history of the United States; to demonstrate that the civilization of the United States is based on the principles of Democracy, and that when properly controlled by morality the people of any country can govern themselves by their chosen representatives; to prove that the doctrine of the separate sovereignty and rights of the States underlies the whole structure of the government of the United States, and that if this foundation be destroyed the whole structure will fall into hopeless ruin; but to prove also that although the right of each State to secede from the Union, for sufficient cause, existed, yet a compact or treaty of Union also existed, and all the States had sovereign right to judge concerning the sufficiency of the cause.

In its preparation he has availed himself of the labors and researches of the latest writers, and one admirable feature of the work is the copious reference to the authorities relied on for the statements made in the text.

"I have sufficiently examined Howison's 'Student's History of the United States' to commend it warmly to schools and colleges for its lucid arrangement, clear style, and accuracy in its detail of facts. Without being a sectional book it is fair to the North and just to the South as to the period of their conflict.

"The history is full, but not diffuse. Its annals of original colonization, of the revolutionary separation of the colonies, of the confederation articles, of the Constitution of 1787-'9, and its sketch of the progress and contests of our century of Union make the book an admirable and comprehensive compendium of the progress of our States from 1607 to 1890. Students in schools and colleges will have in it a text-book, accurate and ample in its details for all their purposes."—Hon. John Randolph Tucker, Prof. of Law, Washington and Lee University, Lexington, Va.

"Though I have not yet found opportunity to give it the reading its importance demands, I am able to say that it is far superior to any on the market. In style and language employed it is a model of what such a book should be. We have adopted it as a text-book in this college."—Hon. Lyon G. Tyler, President of William and Mary College, Virginia.

"With Howison's History at hand, the school-teacher, the ambitious student, and the general reader may well dispense with the more elaborate and partisan works of Bancroft and Hildreth."—Virginia School Journal.

Factor and Product,

THE ESSENTIAL TERMS OF ARITHMETIC. By R. C. Ingalls. Cloth, 12 mo., 110 pp. Price: 60 cents.

This work is designed chiefly for use in our common schools as an adjunct to any and all text-books on the science of numbers.

THE MOTHER'S HAND-BOOK.

A PRACTICAL TREATISE ON THE MANAGEMENT OF CHILDREN IN HEALTH AND DISEASE; with an appendix containing articles on diseases that may suddenly attack grown persons. By LEVIN J. WOOLLEN, M. D. Octavo, 422 pp. Price: Cloth, $2.25; Library Sheep, $2.75.

This is a book that should find a place in every family. It has been written from a professional standpoint, by a practicing physician of over thirty years' experience, and in such a manner as to make its meaning perfectly plain to any person of average intelligence. Elegantly printed in full octavo size, and bound in library sheep, with marbled edges; also, in full cloth.

"The family physician often wants to be able to recommend a reliable work to the mothers in his practice, guiding them in the proper physical care of their children. Without attempting to give an exhaustive review, it is sufficient to say that we can heartily recommend this book for that purpose. * * * With this book in the library and "Babyhood" the mother's intelligence could be so cultivated that she would be an efficient aid to the physician in even the severest cases."—Medical World, Philadelphia.

"This book is what it claims to be—a practical treatise on the management of children in health and disease. It is questionable how much good is done by this class of books, because they frequently fall into the hands of those who are not able to understand them; but, on the other hand, it cannot be denied that to an intelligent mother who recognizes the fact that its object is not to transform her into a physician, but simply to guide her in the rules of health, the work may be of great value. The present volume is the best we have seen of its kind, because it deals chiefly with such subjects as nursing, feeding, personal and family hygiene, while it has little to say about medicine. The chapter on infant feeding is excellent, and contains much information that is absolutely necessary to the nursing mother."—Occidental Medical Times, Sacramento, Cal.

Yankee Doodle Dixie,

OR, LOVE THE LIGHT OF LIFE. Full cloth, 12 mo., 540 pp. Price: $1.25. An Historical Romance, illustrative of life and love in an old Virginia country home, containing also an explanatory account of the passions, prejudices and opinions which culminated in the civil war. By J. V. RYALS, of Virginia.

"The style of the book is smooth, poetical, graceful and graphic. * * * Skillfully blending the fictitious characters of the novel, with the true characters and events of history, clearly and concisely setting forth the circumstances, passions and sectional prejudices which culminated in the late civil war, it should serve to bring about a more kindly feeling between the survivors of the Blue and the Gray."

SMITH'S PRACTICAL SINGLE ENTRY BOOK-KEEPING,

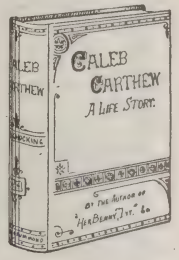
By J. R. MILLER, D. D.

1 vol., 12mo; cloth, gilt top. $1.50.

"Each day of the year has a page. At the top is a verse of Scripture, and this is followed by two or three sententious paragraphs containing the thoughts which the verse suggests. From page to page and from day to day the author leads his readers on, with instruction, edification, and spiritual stimulus."—Christian Observer.

Caleb Carthew.



"A new story from the pen of SILAS K. HOCKING, author of "Her Benny," &c. 1 vol., 12mo. $1.50.

"One of the successful children's story writers of England is the Rev. Silas K. Hocking, and on this side of the Atlantic his stories are not unknown."—S. S. Times.

"The scene is laid in Brunhill, Lancashire; a seemingly unimportant incident opens the story and really proves the turning point in Caleb Carthew's life, as it caused him to be expelled from school, brought about the Damon and Pythias friendship between himself and Frank Preston, and finally was the cause of David's becoming a carpenter's apprentice. From this time Frank tells the story which comprises the eventful things in Caleb's career, some interesting things in his own history, their joint romances, and the sad love affair of Kate Carthew."—Publishers Weekly.

See what is said of Miss Drinkwater's Books:

"They are extremely well written, free from every taint of sensational trickery, yet so intensely interesting that they draw the reader gently on from page to page with the attraction of earnestness, simplicity and purity.

"While evincing qualities of originality and literary taste, and offering much to suggest genius, the author of this pleasing and thoroughly good fiction is entitled to high praise for especial cleverness in writing books which at once interest and at the same time instil into the heart a fine sense of life's noblest concerns. Young ladies especially should read them."—A Boston Critic.

David's Little Lad. By L. T. MEADE. 1 vol., 12mo. 220 pp. $1.00.

Deserted Jessie. By MARY B. COLBY. 1 vol., 16mo. $1.00.

"Deserted Jessie" was a wee bit when found asleep by the roadside by a plain Scotchman, whose tender heart was touched and whose strong arms carried her to his humble home. There was nothing to prove her identity save a little bundle of clothing and a few lines stating that she was three years old. Later, when trouble came to the Scotch family, she was, through the influence of a physician, who learned the facts, taken into a happy and refined home and given the benefit of an excellent education. There was mutually a strong affection and friendship, though she had expected to be received as a servant. Inquiry and diligent search finally elicited the fact that she was the child of the doctor's brother, and that she was in the midst of relatives and natural friends, though all unknown to them until that time.

Gleams from Paul's Prison.

By WAYLAND HOYT, D. D. 1 vol., 18mo; cloth, red edges. $1.00.

"This is a fitting companion to the author's previous volume, 'Present Lessons from Distant Days.' That took us into the Old Testament, and from the life of Abraham brought instruction needful in these later times. This takes us into the New Testament, and from the Epistle to the Phillippians, following its teachings in course, shows the practical bearing of its lessons upon daily life in our own day. It is to us an admirable illustration of the wonderful suggestiveness of Scripture, and also of the freshness and interest which one who has the homiletic faculty can give to such a study of one of Paul's epistles. No one can read it and not have new rays of instruction thrown upon daily life. It will awaken, too, we believe, new interest in this inspired and inspiring epistle."—Zion Advocate.

Great Thinkers and Workers.

1 vol., 16mo; cloth. Illustrated. $1.00.

Life is too short; the world is too busy to read long biographies, even of the most notable men, unless they have an especial and personal interest to the reader, or are in line with his own career. But a person would be uncultured, indeed, who knew nothing whatever of the lives of those who have made footprints on the sands of time.

Great Historic Events.

1 vol., 16mo; cloth. Illustrated. 336 pp. $1.00.

Another capital book for boys. It is a collection of the more exciting happenings connected with the conquest of India by the British, the Indian Mutiny, the French revolutions of the past century, the crusades, the conquest of Mexico, and Napoleon's disastrous campaign against Russia. The book is tastefully printed and copiously illustrated. It contains a deal of wholesome, instructive reading matter for the young.

It does not belong to the class of religious books, although many of the religious problems of the day are treated from the highest standpoint. NEWARK, Jan. 25, 1887.

Editors of the Observer: Many thanks for the copy of "Jerry McAuley; His Life and Work," which you have been so kind as to send me. It presents so admirable and touching illustrations of the love and grace of Jesus, the Saviour of sinners, and of the renewing and transforming power of the Holy Spirit, that it can hardly fail to produce the best effects on those who shall read it. It must warm and stimulate every Christian heart, it would seem. It is adapted to make the sinful feel their sins, and the need of the Lamb of Calvary In no way, perhaps, does the Gospel come with such power to the heart as in such an example as Jerry's case presents. Made so wonderful an instance, as he was, and sustained and blessed to the end, it is right that the work begun by and in him should be carried on still by means of this heart stirring volume. I cannot help imagining him and my dear friend "Irenæus" as rejoicing together before the throne of eternal Love! May the book be very widely read, and accompanied with the power of the Divine Spirit. With renewed thanks, I am, Gentlemen, Very faithfully yours, RAY PALMER.

"Teachers are often in want of some little book of poetic selections for the use of smaller children. To supply this want, Mrs. O. Augusta Cheney has collected a number of pieces suitable to Sunday-school concerts, festivals, day schools, temperance and juvenile entertainments. Many of these selections have appeared in the serials on which the child of to-day is fattened. Some are clever, others are amusing, and nearly all will be entertaining to children. A number of short pieces are inserted for the use of little ones who cannot learn those of great length, and no pieces are included which are too difficult to be rendered acceptably by children of ten years."—Christian Register.

It is a book for the young, and especially for girls. As the compiler says in his preface, "A good life is the best of sermons," and he has given us here a collection of as instructive and valuable sermons as could be culled from the ranks of womankind. No girl can read the life stories of these good women without feeling herself inspired to better thought and noble endeavor.

"I have read with true interest, and at one sitting, 'Margaret,' by Lyndon. The author is to be congratulated on having launched so happy an adventure in her first literary voyaging. It shows, I think, great felicity and delicacy in the observation and portrayal of character, and it sustains an unflagging interest in the reader. Its Margaret is a noble personation, and its Chloe, though akin to Topsy, has a genial, whimsical originality quite her own."—William R. Williams, D. D., New York City.

Story of a Story (The). By MARGARET F. LEE. 1 vol., 12mo. $1.25.

"In this delightful story we have pictured most graphically the heroic conduct of a family who had been overtaken with adversity, which required them to step down from a life of affluence, ease, and comfort, to humbler walks in life. Theo and Constance Templeton, the two oldest, determined to seek a qualification for relieving and helping their parents, and ere long they acquired many graces of mind and housekeeping experience, which they turned to practical use, and soon better days were enjoyed temporarily, though the social home life of the family had been sweet and happy all the time. Theo, the central character, soon turned her fine cultivated mind to teaching, and then united authorship, and was successful in both, and so adversity soon disappeared. Throughout the power of the Gospel was seen in the family, in the course of these young heroines. The reading of this pure story will prove a source of pleasure as well as a blessing."—Christian Advocate.

"This is a temperance story of particular interest, in which the young son of a drunkard, unaided by his environment, outstrips all his associates even, and becomes the confidant of his employer, who sends him abroad on business, takes him into the firm, and at length looks with gratification upon his marriage to his own daughter. Some of the indirect teachings of the story are extremely praiseworthy. Again, the growth of temperance sentiment is finely delineated by the suggestive contrast of the times of the drinking father with those of the abstinent son. We wish the book a large circulation."—Golden Rule.

Carpentry for River and Garden. Edited by F. CHILTON-YOUNG. In two parts, namely: Part I.—Boat-Building Made Easy. Part II.—Rustic Carpentry. Illustrated with numerous diagrams and engravings. Crown 8vo, cloth..... 40

The subjects treated in this book speak for themselves, but it may be pointed out that it is peculiarly appropriate as the initiatory volume of the series, and should be doubly welcome to amateurs, as it will appear just at the time when workers at home are seeking to exchange the limited area of the workshop for the wider space of the boat-building yard, and to enter on the constructions of summer-houses and kindred structures that are alike useful and ornamental in any and every garden.

Electrician (The) at Home. Edited by F. CHILTON-YOUNG. In two parts, namely: Part I.—Electro Plating at Home in All Its Branches. Part II.—Electric Bells, Their Fitting and Management. Carefully illustrated with diagrams and plans. Crown 8vo, cloth..... 40

Since electricity has been brought into the service of man, its theory and practice have presented such a powerful attraction for amateurs that there are few who, at some time or other, have not yielded to the fascination of the science, and tried their hand at a work whose results are so marvellous. In the two sections of this volume, originally written for "Amateur Work" by Mr. George Edwinson Bonney, the amateur electrician will find all the instruction he can possibly require for renewing the electro-plating of his forks and spoons, and fitting up his home with electric bells.

History of the English Parliament. Together with an Account of the Parliaments of Scotland and Ireland. By G. BARNETT SMITH. In two large 8vo volumes of about six hundred pages each, illustrated with fac-similes of documents bearing upon the Constitutional and Parliamentary History of England. 2 vols., medium 8vo..... $6 00

This valuable work, being a purely historical and not a party narrative, possesses claims upon all classes of the community. It is constructed from the official records of Parliament and the various constitutional writers of authority upon the respective periods dealt with. It proceeds upon wholly different lines from the many excellent constitutional histories already in existence, and is THE FIRST COMPLETE CONSECUTIVE RECORD YET PUBLISHED OF THE BRITISH PARLIAMENT as a representative and legislative institution. Many years have been spent in its preparation, and as a work of permanent value and profound interest, it appeals to the English-speaking race at home and abroad.

The first volume begins with the earliest times, and ends with the reign of Charles II. The second commences with the Revolution, and comes down to the reign of Victoria, closing with the Reform Acts of 1884-5. The Supplements alone to this History—which are seventeen in number—are virtually a work in themselves. These "Constitutional Addenda" embrace a vast variety of information touching the Sovereign, the Cabinet, the Parliament, and the Constitution. The interest of the work is further enhanced by a number of fac-similes of documents illustrative of the History of Parliament.

House Painting and Papering. With Instructions on the Decorations of Floors and Panels and Hints on French Polishing. Illustrated with diagrams and many original designs. Edited by F. CHILTON-YOUNG. Crown 8vo, cloth 40

The subject-matter of this volume, like many of the other volumes of the series, is sufficiently indicated by its title; but it may be useful to say that the entire work of renovating the interior of the dwelling-house is ably described—so completely, indeed, that any handy man could go to work and carry out the job successfully by following the instructions given, and that several novel methods of decorating floors are described in detail and illustrated by suitable designs.

(Minerva Library.) 12mo, cloth 75
Half calf 1 75

Mechanical Work in Garden and Greenhouse. Edited by F. CHILTON-YOUNG. In three parts, namely: Part I.—Geometry for Gardeners. Part II.—Sun-Dials and Dialling. Part III.—Greenhouse Building and Heating. Illustrated with numerous diagrams and engravings. Crown 8vo, cloth 40

In this volume, gardeners, whether amateur or professional, are shown how to form with precision beds of any shape in garden or on lawn, how to indicate the progress of time by the sun, and how to build and warm a small greenhouse.

Metal Working for Amateurs. Edited by F. CHILTON-YOUNG. In three parts, namely: Part I.—Brazing and Soldering. Part II.—Practical Gas-Fitting. Part III.—Brass Casting at Home. With instructions on the Mode of Joining Lead Pipes. Illustrated with numerous diagrams and sketches. Crown 8vo, cloth 40

This, possibly, may be characterized as one of the most useful volumes of the series, presenting as it does, in a combined form, instructions in various kinds of metal work, in which information is often sought after by amateurs who fail to find any vade-mecum in which the various kinds of work under consideration are described with the clearness and minuteness so much needed by the unpractised workman.

Minerva Library of Famous Books (The). Edited by G. T. BETTANY, M.A., B.Sc. An illustrated series of first-class books, averaging from 400 to 600 pages, strongly and attractively bound in cloth 75

Here all who are fond of enriching wood-work at home are first shown how to handle and use the tools of the wood-carver, and then how to apply the art of carving in wood combined with plain carpentry to the adornment of the house, and how to make and put together the curious lattice-work so common in Egypt and the East, but hitherto almost unknown and little practised in this country.

The author has endeavored to present, in a style so plain and minute as to be perfectly comprehensible to any one, the newest and best recipes, and those only of really practical value. Every recipe in the book has been thoroughly tested and frequently used by the author, during twenty years' practice in London and Paris as chief pastrycook and confectioner.

World's Religions Series (The). By the late G. T. BETTANY, M.A., B.Sc. The four volumes embraced in this series are intended to give in a popular manner an account of the principal religions or religious systems of mankind, past and present. Historic fact is followed as far as it can be ascertained, and theorizing has little place. The author's endeavor was to state simply and impartially what is the faith possessed by various peoples or associations, what are the objects of their worship, what are their practices, their ceremonies, their institutions. The author's personal opinions have been obtruded as little as possible, impartiality and fairness being aimed at. No doctrine is sought to be enforced, no creed to be dictated. NEW STORY BY REV. JOSEPH HOCKING.

Zillah. By Rev. JOSEPH HOCKING, author of "Jabez Easterbrook," "Elrad, the Hic," etc. With frontispiece and vignette title. 12mo, cloth gilt..... 1 00

"Zillah" deals with the fascinating subjects of spiritualism, clairvoyance, etc. The writer has been for years studying these questions, and in order to make his story realistic he has attended many séances, and interviewed numerous mediums. This book has a great and serious purpose. It has a special place in the present time, insomuch as it applies the craze about spiritualism, theosophy, etc., to the deepest needs of the human life. The story appeared as a serial in a largely circulated weekly journal, during which time the author received a large number of congratulatory messages, both from the editors and readers.

The Knightly Soldier.

A Biography of Major Henry Ward Camp, by Chaplain H. Clay Trumbull. New and revised edition 343 pages (5¾ × 8 inches). Illustrated. Price, $1.50.

This book was written while the war was still in progress. The inspiration, and the pressure, of active service in the field, were upon its writer, as he hastened to complete the life-record of his friend. It was published, in Boston, in the spring of 1865; and it rapidly passed from one edition to another, with a steady growth in public favor.

A peculiarity of this war biography is in its subject and its writer, and in the relation of the latter to the former. Major Camp was an exceptionally choice specimen of the best student-soldier of the Union, in the great Civil War. His experience in service was long and varied; and he wrote of its every phase with graphic power. His biographer was his intimate friend, and his close companion in camp, in field, and in prison. In these respects the book is unique among the personal stories of the war. So clearly was this recognized by the reading public generally, that its sixth edition appeared with the special endorsement of the governors of all the New England states, and of fifteen prominent college presidents, East and West. And the Rev. Dr. Bushnell then expressed his conviction that the book would be even better known fifty years from then than at that time; because, as the war receded into the past, only its best representative books would survive the mass of less important war literature. It is in view of this record of its earlier success that the book is again given to the public, in response to repeated requests for its reappearance.

"We are glad to see a 'new and revised' edition of 'The Knightly Soldier.' Not that the first edition required 'revision' of any kind, but simply for the merit of the book from the first, and its value as an inspiring tribute to one of the noblest young heroes who offered up his life in the last war. When we first read the book we thought it was the very best biography that had grown out of the War. As we look it over now in the new edition, it has lost none of its freshness, and we are still unable to think of any other to compare with it. The young student-soldier and his memoir are both perfect in their way. If any in all that struggle deserved the lines which Dr. Bushnell applied to Camp in his commemorative address at Yale in 1865, he did:

'For Lycidas is dead, dead ere his prime,
Young Lycidas, and hath not left his peer.'"

The Independent.

"This is the biography of a Yale man—a model student, a crack oarsman and athlete, a sincere Christian, and a splendid soldier, major of the 10th Connecticut, most interestingly told by his bosom friend. It is one of the most inspiring volumes of war literature we have seen. Every young American would be better for studying the life-record of this martyr-patriot, who was

'A true knight:
Not yet mature, yet matchless.'"

The Western Christian Advocate.

"The frontispiece, a likeness of Major Camp, is one of the most beautiful and manly faces to be found anywhere—frank and fearless, bright and cordial, as becomes the character drawn by the hand of his loving friend in the pages of this rare volume."—The Herald and Presbyter.

Friendship the Master-Passion.

By H. CLAY TRUMBULL.

A treatise on the Nature and History of Friendship, and Its Place as a Force in the World.

The claim is boldly made in this book that friendship has been a more potent factor in the world's forces than any other sentiment or passion, not excepting ambition, avarice, or love; and the cumulative proofs of this thesis are presented in detail. Part I. treats of the Nature and Scope of Friendship. Part II. gives examples of Friendship in History, including all the great epoch-makers in the realms of royalty, heroism, religious progress, struggle for civil liberty, philosophy, and poetry. It is very handsomely published, and is well suited for a gift-book for the holidays, or any other season. 413 pages (9¼×7 inches). In box. Price, $3.00. For sale by booksellers, or mailed, postpaid, by the publishers.

"Thorough scholarship, good sense, and a frank belief in sentiment as a manly attribute, permeate Dr. Henry Clay Trumbull's essay on 'Friendship the Master-Passion.' Unfortunately, the English language has no words suitable to fill the gap between acquaintance and friend, and the word 'friend' has been forced to do service for every form of mutual interest. Dr. Trumbull, however, disregards these intermediate forms of friendliness, and places the sentiment of friendship, as he uses the word, above the lover's love. It is the love of Jonathan for David, Damon for Pythias, 'love with the selfish element eliminated,' the purest and highest form of human affection, which is here studied in its psychological, ethical, religious, historical, and poetic bearings. This volume is filled with a spirit not often found this side of the Elizabethans, and in refreshing contrast to the modern good-natured but unconcerned treatment of the word and thing. Dr. Trumbull may be too poetic in his interpretations of history—though we are not sure that this is so—and is, we think, too matter-of-fact in his interpretations of poetry; but his interpretation of the highest bond between man and man is incontestably sound, reverent, clear, and inspiring."—The Christian Union.

Kadesh-barnea.

By H. CLAY TRUMBULL.

Its Importance and Probable Site, with the Story of a Hunt for it, including Studies of the Route of the Exodus and the Southern Boundary of the Holy Land.

Kadesh-barnea has long been recognized as the key to the history of the Israelites' wanderings in the wilderness, and its site has been in dispute for twenty centuries or more. Dr. Trumbull's discoveries in the East practically determine the route of the exodus, of the main outlines of the wanderings, and of the southern boundary of the Holy Land. The bearing of this book on current questions of the "higher criticism," and on the latest discoveries among the ruins of Lower Egypt, will command for it the attention of biblical scholars generally. The story of the desert hunt for the lost site of Kadesh-barnea is an attractive story of adventure quite out of the usual experience of travelers. It would be difficult to speak too highly of the value of this book for biblical students, and of its fascination for the unlearned Bible reader. A book of 478 pages (7×9½ inches), with two maps and four full-page illustrations. Price, $3.00. For sale by booksellers, or mailed, postpaid, by the publishers.

"This is the most important work upon the geography of the Holy Land produced in America since the 'Biblical Researches' of Edward Robinson. . . . Dr. Trumbull . . . has established the site of Kadesh-barnea so thoroughly, and so fortified his conclusions on every hand, that we believe no one hereafter will think of questioning them. . . . The book is written in an interesting and fervent style. The author grapples with his readers. His enthusiasm is contagious. The critic has to take care and stand firm lest he be swept off his feet. We thank Dr. Trumbull for his labor of love and enthusiasm. He has done honor to American pluck and indefatigable research. We are proud of the book and the man."—PROFESSOR C. A. BRIGGS, in The Presbyterian Review.

The Blood Covenant.

By H. CLAY TRUMBULL.

A Primitive Rite, and its Bearings on Scripture. Revised and enlarged edition.

The disclosures of this book throw light on the terminology of Scripture. They show what such words as "blood," "life," "life-giving," "sacrifice," "communion," meant at the time of the writing of the Bible; and incidentally they show how mistaken have been the modern popular views of those terms. It is not, strictly speaking, a theological treatise, but it presents primitive facts by which theological opinions must be tested. The first edition of this work was received with high praise on both sides of the Atlantic. The new edition contains important additions, as meeting questions raised by eminent critics in their reviews of the work. A book of 350 pages (6½×8½ inches). Price, $2.00. For sale by booksellers, or mailed, postpaid, by the publishers.

"A flood of light is poured on the Incarnation, the Atonement, the Lord's Supper. Dr. Trumbull believes his thesis. He argues for it strongly, with wide and accurate learning, and with reverent faith. He has written a book that every Christian student ought to read,—and to re-read. You may not agree with it, but you will find it bristling with facts and remarkably suggestive. If the author is right in his positions, then both exegesis and theology as human sciences of divine things are improvable sciences. The value of the book to a student is increased by a long appendix and by topical and biblical indices."—The Examiner

Yale Lectures on the Sunday-School.

By H. CLAY TRUMBULL.

The Sunday-school: Its Origin, Mission, Methods, and Auxiliaries. The Lyman Beecher Lectures before Yale Divinity School for 1888.

Every pastor, superintendent, and thoughtful Sunday-school teacher, will wish to possess this book sooner or later. It deals with the principles underlying the Sunday-school as an institution, and with its relations to the family, to the pulpit, and to other spheres of church work. 415 pages (8½×5½ inches). Handsomely bound in cloth. Price, $1.50. For sale by booksellers, or mailed, postpaid, by the publishers.

"These lectures will not only hold their own in the brilliant series of Lyman Beecher Lectures before the Yale Divinity School, but they stand alone on merits of their own as the unique presentation of a subject which has not before received so worthy a treatment. The volume is prepared for convenient use, with a bibliographical and topical index."—The Independent.

"It is an evidence of the progress which has been made in recognizing the true dignity of the Sunday-school, that a course of lectures on this theme should have been called for in a leading theological seminary. It is an equally notable proof of the same thing that, in response to such a call, such a course of lectures should have been secured."—The Congregationalist.

Teaching and Teachers.

By H. CLAY TRUMBULL.

Dr. Trumbull's book "Teaching and Teachers" has already found its way into the hands of many thousand Sunday-school workers. Nearly thirty thousand copies have been sold. It is to-day the popular hand-book on Sunday-school teaching. A book of 300 pages (7½×5¼ inches), bound in cloth. Price, $1.00. For sale by booksellers, or mailed, postpaid, by the publishers.

"Every teacher in Sunday-school will feel his work widened in scope by reading this book. It is by far the best that has yet appeared, or is likely to appear, on this topic, and the thoroughness for which this calls would be an unspeakable blessing to every school in the land."—The Christian Union.

"We hesitate a little in speaking of this book, from fear that our language may be thought extravagant. We believe that a better book on the subject has never appeared, and that, if read and pondered, it will open a new era in Bible-school instruction."—The National Baptist.

A Model Superintendent.

By H. CLAY TRUMBULL.

An object-lesson will help a superintendent more than will a fine-spun theory. The book "A Model Superintendent" shows how a good superintendent actually did his work:—In the study; with the teachers; in the desk; with the scholars; among the records; at special services. It is a sketch of the life and work of Henry P. Haven, of the International Lesson Committee, by the Editor of The Sunday School Times. Bound in cloth, with fine steel portrait of Mr. Haven. 188 pages (5×7½ inches). Price, $1.00. For sale by booksellers, or mailed, postpaid, by the publishers.

"We hardly know of a volume which so pleasantly and so thoroughly introduces a novice to the methods of work that have been introduced, by that sanctified common sense with which Mr. Haven was liberally endowed, in our best regulated modern Sunday-schools."—The Examiner and Chronicle.

Hints on Child-Training.

By H. CLAY TRUMBULL.

A Series of Thirty Articles on the Nature and Scope and Methods of the Wise Training of Children.

This work is the ripest result of the lifetime study and experience of a Christian educator, in the sphere of the home training of children, as distinct from their teaching in the week-day school or the Sunday-school. Every precept in its pages has been tested by the principles of Christian philosophy, and by actual experiment in more than one generation of little ones. A book of over 300 pages (7½×5½ inches), cloth, gilt top. Price, $1.00. For sale by booksellers, or mailed, postpaid, by the publishers.

"One can scarcely read a page of the book without coming upon some thought or suggestion that will be helpful in properly dealing with the boy or the girl that we know. If this book were studied by every parent who now has a flock of little ones around him, we do not at all doubt that the effect would be very perceptible on the whole American people in its coming generation."—The Lutheran.

Principles and Practice.

By H. CLAY TRUMBULL.

A Series of Brief Essays. In six volumes, each volume complete in itself.

1. OURSELVES AND OTHERS.
2. ASPIRATIONS AND INFLUENCES.
3. SEEING AND BEING.
4. PRACTICAL PARADOXES.
5. CHARACTER-SHAPING AND CHARACTER-SHOWING.
6. DUTY-KNOWING AND DUTY-DOING.

These Essays, in the realm of character and conduct, deal with fundamental principles in their application to the affairs of every-day life. Into each of the six volumes are clustered those essays which bear a logical relation to one another and to a truth common to them all. This set of six volumes, averaging 200 pages per book, is tastefully bound in cloth, and enclosed in a box. Price, $2.50 a set, or fifty cents a volume for less than a set. As a Christmas gift, these books will be found most attractive and helpful. For sale by booksellers, or mailed, postpaid, by the publishers.

"These essays show a keen power of discrimination, united to clearness of statement, aptness of illustration, and felicity in the art of putting things. The author seeks to touch the deeper springs of life and character. His themes, therefore, are living ones, and his treatment of them fresh, earnest, and both morally and intellectually stimulating."—The Christian Register.

The Impregnable Rock of Holy Scripture.

By the Rt. Hon. WILLIAM EWART GLADSTONE, M. P.

A series of articles written for The Sunday School Times by Mr. Gladstone, and afterwards issued in book form by a special arrangement with their eminent author. Revised and enlarged edition.

This book shows how the Bible appears to a statesman and man of affairs, after he has carefully weighed the evidence which the critics have brought against it. Perhaps Mr. Gladstone's powers were never used to better purpose than in the writing of this book. 424 pages (7½×5½ inches), cloth, gilt top, with portrait and facsimile letter of commendation from Mr. Gladstone to his American readers. Price, $1.00. For sale by booksellers, or mailed, postpaid, by the publishers.

"We believe it to be one of the most timely, and, in certain respects, most valuable, contributions that have lately been made to the discussion relative to the divine inspiration and authority of the Scriptures."—The Advance.

"The book is marked by the peculiar beauties belonging to the gifted author. It is rich in argument, brilliant in wit, full of varied illustrations, wide and philosophic in thought."—Journal and Messenger.

The Divine Order of Human Society.

By ROBERT ELLIS THOMPSON, S.T.D.

Professor Thompson is widely known as a writer on social and economic problems. By appointment of the Faculty of Princeton Theological Seminary, he lectured, in the winter of 1891, on Christian Sociology. His lectures, which then awakened the keenest enthusiasm of the students, were at once published in book form. They discuss the practical problems of the family, the nation, the school, and the church, in the light both of the Scriptures and of modern experience. A book of 274 pages (5½×7½ inches), cloth, gilt top, uncut edges. Price, $1.00. For sale by booksellers, or mailed, postpaid, by the publishers.

"It is a noticeable utterance, and is fitted to emancipate many a mind from the bonds of narrowness, whether found in political or religious thinking."—Public Opinion.

"In no volume of our acquaintance is the whole social problem so fully and so satisfactorily presented."—The Christian Intelligencer.

The National Hymn-Book.

Edited by ROBERT ELLIS THOMPSON, S.T.D.

Comprising the hymns which are common to the hymnaries of the Baptists, Congregationalists, Episcopalians, Lutherans, Methodists, Presbyterians, and of the Reformed churches, with the most usual tunes.

By the side of each hymn is given a series of references to twenty-one denominational and nine privately edited hymn-books. The references tell just where the hymn is to be found in any of these thirty books. When a hymn is omitted from any of these books, it is so indicated in the references.

The practical value of this book in union meetings, hotel services, and the like, will be readily apparent. Hardly a hymn can be chosen from it which would not be familiar to any gathering of Christians, since every hymn in the book is a standard hymn, set to its usual tune, and is well known in all the leading denominations. Ministers will find the book peculiarly helpful in selecting hymns when preaching in churches other than their own.

It is bound in fine cloth, and is easily kept wide open. 188 pages (5½×7½ inches). Price: per hundred, $50; per dozen, $6.50; single copies by mail, 60 cents.

"One who notes each hymn in the collection, going through the book from page to page, cannot but be impressed with the conviction that almost every one is, tested by the highest standards, a classic. They are the 'finest of the wheat,' without blemish, and instinct with spiritual vitality and power."—The Advance.

The Ten Commandments.

By H. CLAY TRUMBULL.

Here is a new view of the Ten Commandments in the light of Oriental methods of thought and manner of speech. Instead of being arbitrary commands of God, they are shown to be ten clauses in a covenant of love. To gain this view of them is to learn how love is the fulfilling of the law. 38 pages (5½×7½ inches). Price, 25 cents. For sale by booksellers, or mailed, postpaid, by the publishers.

Light on the Story of Jonah.

By H. CLAY TRUMBULL.

The Book of Jonah has been for centuries an object of special interest to Bible scholars, as well as of doubts and sneers to scoffers. This study of it brings into new relations with it important facts in recent Assyrian discoveries, and in the history of Nineveh. It attracted attention among scholars on the occasion of its reading before the American Society of Biblical Literature and Exegesis; and it can be read to advantage by all who are interested in the truth of the Bible story. 19 pages (5½×7½ inches), with illustrations. Price, 20 cents. For sale by booksellers, or mailed, postpaid, by the publishers.

Two Northfield Sermons.

By H. CLAY TRUMBULL.

I. MORAL COLOR-BLINDNESS. II. OUR DUTY OF MAKING THE PAST A SUCCESS.

These sermons of Dr. Trumbull before the conferences of college students at Northfield impressed their hearers at the first time of their delivery, and their influence has been recognized in the lives of not a few since then. They are now published in permanent form in response to frequent requests for copies of them. Their practical lessons bear directly on present duty, and are an incitement to high endeavor in manly living. In one volume of 53 pages (5½×7½ inches). Price, 30 cents. For sale by booksellers, or mailed, postpaid, by the publishers.

A Lie Never Justifiable.

Sunday School Periodicals.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL TIMES. A 16-page paper for superintendents, pastors, teachers, the older scholars, and all Bible students. It is published weekly at the following rates, which include postage:

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

ONE COPY, one year, ... $1.50
ONE COPY, five years, full payment in advance, ... 5.00
To Ministers, Missionaries, and Theological Students, $1.00 a year, or $4.00 for five years, full payment in advance.

SCHOOL CLUBS.

Any school or any set of teachers, or of scholars, will be supplied with as many copies as may be desired, at the following yearly club rates:

For any number of copies (more than one) mailed to individual addresses, $1.00 each.

For five or more copies in a package to one address, 50 cents each. A package thus sent is addressed to one person only, and no names can be written or printed on the separate papers.

The papers for a club may be ordered sent partly to individual addresses at $1.00 each, and partly in a package to one address, at 50 cents each, when so desired.

The papers for a club should all go to one post-office, although in cases where a portion of the teachers of a school get their mail matter from one post-office, and others in the same school get theirs from another, the papers will be sent accordingly. This applies to package clubs, at the fifty-cent rate, to the extent that large clubs may be divided into packages of five or more, if desired.

FREE COPIES. One free copy, additional, will be allowed for every ten copies paid for in a club of either character. The free copies for package clubs cannot well be sent separately, but will be included in the package.

Additions may be made at any time to a club—such additional subscriptions to expire at the same time with the club as originally ordered, and the rate to be the proportionate share of the yearly club rate.

Schools that are open during only a portion of the year, may subscribe at club rates for such a length of time as the papers may be required.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS. Subscribers to whom the paper is mailed, separately, at the rate of $1.50 or $1.00 a year, may have the address changed at any time without charge. Members of package clubs do not have this privilege, but any such may have his paper changed from the package to an individual address, by paying fifty cents, the difference in the price of the two classes of subscriptions, or may order an extra copy of the paper sent to a vacation address, at the rate of three cents a week for a short term, or twenty-five cents for three months.

THE SCHOLAR'S LESSON GUIDE. Issued quarterly. 16 pages. A brief help to the study of the International Sunday-school lessons. It is prepared by a skilled worker at lesson helps. Five or more copies, in a package to one address, one cent each per quarter; four cents each per year. Specimen copies free.

THE SCHOLAR'S MAGAZINE. A 32-page monthly publication, containing wholesome home reading for the scholars, also the International Sunday-school lessons. It is believed that this magazine will at once find its way into thousands of schools. BEARD, DAN. Moonblight and Six Feet of Romance. Octavo, 250 pages, fully illustrated by the author.

This story we believe will take rank with "Looking Backward." It treats of some of the great social problems of the day in a novel, powerful, and intensely interesting manner. The hero becomes strangely endowed with the power of seeing people in their true light. It is needless to say that this power proves both a curse and a blessing, and leads to many and strange adventures. Mr. Beard's reputation as an artist is world-wide, and the numerous illustrations he provides for this book powerfully portray the spirit of the text.

BIGELOW, POULTNEY. The German Emperor and His Eastern Neighbors. In Fiction, Fact, and Fancy Series. 12mo, 180 pages, with portrait of William II.

Mr. Bigelow's sturdy republicanism has not blinded him to the ability of his old playmate. There are few who have been allowed to enter so completely into the Emperor's plans and aspirations; and knowledge of these has been used with advantage in this volume. An extended tour through the Danubian provinces and Western Russia has also enabled Mr. Bigelow to record his personal observation of the state of affairs in the debatable ground of Europe. The chapter describing the fighting forces of Germany supplies an interesting account of the best-equipped army in the world.

The most remarkable and thrilling story since "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," which it resembles, in that it treats of the dual character of man, and the separation and development of these characters, until one of them gains control and leads the victim through awful experiences until he is finally rescued by accepting the teachings of Christ.

CAVAZZA, MRS. ELISABETH. Don Finimondone: Calabrian Sketches. In Fiction, Fact, and Fancy Series. 12mo, 180 pages, with frontispiece by Dan Beard.

At the mention of life in Italy, the names of Hawthorne, Marion Crawford, and Henry Fuller come to mind. They, however, have been most successful in their portrayal of the upper classes. To enter into the very soul of the Calabrian peasant, to see as he sees, to think as he thinks, and withal to capture the true romance of his condition—these privileges have fallen to the share of the lady whose stories are here given.

A dainty little patrician sketch has been added to the volume by way of contrast with these pictures of Italian life among the lowly.

Fac-similes of Important Letters to Conkling from Grant, Hayes, Arthur, Garfield, Harrison, Thurman, Hamlin and others, on the Democratic side as well as on the Republican side.

The biography of Roscoe Conkling is to a large extent the political history of New York and of the United States from the year 1871 to the year 1884, and as such will be of wide and general interest, irrespective of individual political opinions and prejudices. The author has sought "to call Roscoe Conkling, as it were, to the witness-stand of public opinion and allow him to testify for himself."

Profusely illustrated, steel-print frontispiece, colored engravings, woodcuts, and photo-engravings. Illustrations by "Chip" and Coffin, and other well-known artists.

Mr. Cox's last and best work. While the book sparkles with the brightest wit, it also gives a concise and interesting account of the Ottoman Empire. The perplexed Eastern Question is made clearer than in any volume yet published. The strange customs, legends, and superstitions are vividly and humorously depicted. Mr. Cox sees things through the eyes of a scholar, statesman, and humorist.

CRAWFORD, MAJ.-GEN'L SAMUEL WYLIE, A. M., M. D., LL. D. Genesis of The Civil War: The Story of Sumter. Octavo volume, 600 pages. Illustrated with steel-plate portrait and numerous woodcuts, engraved from photographs, and from sketches drawn at the Fort just previous to, and immediately after the bombardment. Fac-similes of celebrated letters.

Although a vast amount of matter has been published relating to the War, we feel that in offering this book to the public, we are filling a page in our nation's history that has heretofore been blank. The movements of armies after war has actually begun are comparatively easily understood; but the events which make the existence of armed forces necessary are often shrouded in doubt. It is to dispel the cloud that has enveloped the history of 1860, and the early months of 1861, that this book is published. Of all that transpired at Sumter itself and the forts and batteries surrounding it, General Crawford was an eye-witness—being senior staff-officer under Major Anderson. The private papers of such men as Gov. Francis W. Pickens, the Hon. William H. Trescott, U. S. Assistant Secretary of State, Judge Campbell, the Hon. F. W. Seward, and many others, were put into General Crawford's hands. The official letter-book of the Confederate War Department was also in his possession, and a multitude of documents from various sources have been carefully and critically studied.

CRIM, MISS MATT. Adventures of a Fair Rebel. 12mo, 325 pages, with frontispiece by Dan Beard.

Adventures of a Fair Rebel, deals with the experiences of a young girl whose family journeys from North Carolina to Georgia during the Civil War, and who passes through the closing scenes of the contest in and near Atlanta.

Readers of Miss Crim's magazine stories will be greatly interested in her first extended effort, both for its entertaining story and for its truthful portrayal of life in the Southern states during the Rebellion. To Southerners it will be a picturesque reminder of trials now happily softened by intervening years. To Northerners it will bring a better understanding of the spirit which maintained the Confederacy.

Cloth, $1 00

———In Beaver Cove and Elsewhere. 12mo, 346 pages, fully illustrated by Kemble.

In this volume the best of Miss Crim's short stories are given. In "Beaver Cove," "S'phiry Ann," "An Onfortunit Creetur," "Bet Crow," "Silury," "'Zeki'l," and "How the Quarrel Ended," we have vivid pictures of various phases of life in the Georgia mountains. "An Old Time Love Story" is all its title would indicate. "A Crucial Test" is also a love tale with a startling and tragic ending. In "The Story of a Lilac Gown" Miss Crim appears, perhaps, at her best. It is an exceedingly clever romance, and introduces a most interesting study of clairvoyance.

GARNER, R. L. The Speech of Monkeys. 12mo, over 200 pages, with portrait of author.

Mr. Garner's articles published in the leading periodicals and journals touching upon this subject have been widely read and commented upon by scientific men both here and abroad. The field he enters is absolutely a new one, but the result of his efforts to solve the great problem of speech has so far exceeded his expectations, and he has received such encouragement from scientific and literary sources, that he has determined to pursue his researches in the heart of the tropics, the native home of the great Apes, and he will soon leave for an extended trip in Africa.

This work embodies his researches up to the present time. It is divided into two parts, the first being a record of experiments with monkeys and other animals, and the second part a treatise on the theory of speech. The work is written so as to bring the subject within the reach of the casual reader without impairing its scientific value.

KALAKAUA, HIS HAWAIIAN MAJESTY. The Legends and Myths of Hawaii: The Fables and Folk-Lore of a Strange People. Edited, with an introduction, by Hon. R. M. Daggett, late U. S. Minister to the Hawaiian Islands. An octavo volume of 530 pages. Two steel portraits, and twenty-five other beautiful illustrations. An exhaustive index.

For many years it has been known that the Hawaiian, or Sandwich Islands were rich in legends and fables, handed down through numberless generations. The beauty and poetry of many of these is hardly to be surpassed in either Grecian or Roman Mythology. Scholars will read this book with interest, as it is an investigation in a new field, and the general reader will find in these weird legends of a strange people, now nearly extinct, a charm lacking in modern romances. The Hawaiian Islands for thousands of years were thickly populated by fierce, war-loving, highly imaginative people, and through these myths there runs a stream of poetical fire which gives them an absorbing interest merely as stories, independent of their historical value.

The general tendency of the work is toward the upraising and elevating of woman, not by unsexing her, but by making her more truly womanly, and the picture Mrs. Miller gives of the "Home of the Future, and its Queen" is one that all women must earnestly hope to soon see realized.

McCLELLAN, GEN'L GEO. B. McClellan's Own Story. In one royal octavo volume of about 700 pages. Illustrated with steel-plate portrait and numerous fine woodcuts. Engraved from photographs taken during the War, and from sketches drawn on the field of battle by A. R. Waud, the great war artist, who accompanied General McClellan during his campaigns. Fac-simile of a celebrated dispatch.

This book is exactly what its title indicates. McClellan, dead, lifts the veil which has concealed the true history of 1861 and 1862. For more than twenty years every intelligent American has been saying: "I wish I could hear McClellan's own story!" No man has occupied more closely the attention of his fellow-citizens. Thousands of them admired and loved him; many of them, led by partisan politicians, criticised and mistrusted him; and some violently maligned and slandered him.

SCOTT, HENRY W. Distinguished American Lawyers: Their struggles and triumphs in the Forum. Royal octavo, 800 pages. Containing an elegantly engraved portrait. Autograph and biography of each subject, embracing their professional work and the public career of those called to serve their country. Introduction by Hon. John J. Ingalls.

From the profession of law, more than from any other, have been drawn men who have won distinction in various walks of life. Most of our great statesmen, many of our successful business men and prominent generals began life as lawyers. It is a profession that fits men far better than any other for the duties of life, and Mr. Scott has kept this in mind in compiling his book. He has given not alone the lives and portraits of those who have won distinction as lawyers, but, in addition, the lives of those who, through the profession of law, have achieved high places in other walks. Such men as Abraham Lincoln, Chauncey Depew, Grover Cleveland, Benjamin Harrison, and others could not be omitted from a work of this kind, although it is not as lawyers they have won their greatest renown.

Fac-similes of famous letters, twenty-six maps prepared specially for this book by the War Department. An exhaustive index.

Sheridan must rank as the ablest cavalry general of modern times, and his career is as romantic and interesting as it is wonderful. Of all our great generals, his life was the fullest of adventures, and his Personal Memoirs reads like a work of fiction. For the benefit of the military student, and those who want to enter into the details of his campaigns, he has prepared statistics in the form of notes and maps; but these are so arranged as not to interrupt the flow of the story.

SHERMAN, GEN'L W. T. Personal Memoirs of Gen'l W. T. Sherman. By himself, with appendix by James G. Blaine. Two octavo volumes of 500 pages each with steel-plate portraits. Maps showing the marches of the United States forces under General Sherman's command.

General Sherman closed his personal Memoirs with his retirement from the army in 1884, which ended his public life. But he could not lead the life of an ordinary citizen. He was so much loved and honored, his counsel was so wise, and his presence so genial that he was constantly sought after, and, though he refused all political honors, he frequently gave his name and presence to worthy objects. So the public demanded to know more of his life than he wrote himself. To meet this demand it was thought wise to have additional matter written, using the general's own letters and memoranda as far as possible, bringing the story of his life from 1884 down to its closing scenes, and giving a description of the imposing ceremonies that accompanied the march to the grave. This has been done, and has been carefully revised and corrected by Hon. James G. Blaine, who has also written a critique of the Memoirs and a personal tribute to the general. This work could not have fallen into better hands. Mr. Blaine was a warm and lifelong friend of General Sherman, and appreciated, perhaps, better than anyone else, his many-sided and brilliant character.

STEDMAN, EDMUND CLARENCE. The Library of American Literature. Compiled and edited by Edmund Clarence Stedman and Ellen Mackay Hutchinson. In eleven octavo volumes of over 500 pages each. Fifteen full-page portraits in each volume, many of which are rare and valuable.

A nation lives in its literature, which, unless it be imitative, reflects the character of thought of every period through which the nation passes. Here is the record of patriotism, of the struggles for religious and political liberty, and here also we find depicted the daily life of the people, and the manner in which they were educated, cultivated, and amused.

For many years there was no broadly recognized, distinctively American literature; it was studied only as rather an insignificant offshoot of the literature of England. Unprejudiced investigation, however, has shown that America has had a literature characteristic of the time and country that produced it, from the earliest settlements to the present date. The last century, which has seen a few isolated colonies, exhausted by eight years' revolution, develop into a mighty nation, has also witnessed the growth of a national literature, a literature keeping pace with our wonderful material prosperity, and equally a matter of national pride and national importance. The truth of this assertion is made evident by the numerous and increasing demands for a work embodying in a reasonable compass all that was best and most characteristic in the writings of our authors, a work chronologically arranged, so that each period of our growth might be reflected in the writings of its great authors. It was to meet such a demand as this that A Library of American Literature, from the Earliest Settlement to the Present Time, was undertaken. That it would be all that its comprehensive title indicated was assured from the first by the names of its gifted editors, and now that the work is finished, the unqualified endorsement of the press and of eminent men and women leaves no room for disappointment.

In compiling this work personal opinions and prejudices have been allowed no weight; the editors have had but one criteron, namely: Has each author, in the opinion of those most competent to judge, produced literature worthy of preservation ? have his or her writings influenced our literary life, or reflected any phases of our national growth ? if so, the best of these writings shall be given, irrespective of political views and religious convictions. In deciding this question the genius, literary instinct, and training of the editors manifest themselves. The work is as broad as our continent, and the selections as diversified as our national life. It is strictly a work for the whole people, not for a class, and is arranged to meet the requirements of all.

STODDARD, W. O. Inside the White House in War Times. 12mo, 244 pages, with illustration by Dan Beard.

The most charming and instructive of all Mr. Stoddard's works. In its pictures of men, women, and events, it justifies its title. Humorous, pathetic, and exciting incidents follow one another through the pages of this book, making it intensely interesting to both young and old.

——Life IS Worth Living, and Other Stories. 12mo, 230 pages. Translated direct from the Russian by Count Norraikow, with illustrations by Gribayédoff

Cloth, - - - - - - - - $1 00

These stories, unlike some of Tolstoï's later works, show him at his best; in fact, their great strength lies in their wonderful simplicity and purity; they were all written to teach the middle and lower classes of Russia some great moral truths, such as temperance, kindness, honesty, patience, humility. These truths Tolstoi impresses upon his readers not through political discussions or dissertations, which would often fail to interest, but they are manifested entirely through the actions of his characters. Wonderful pictures of Russian life are given, strange Russian superstition and Russian folk-lore are brought to his aid, and occasionally the supernatural is used to help impress his readers with the moral which the tale is intended to point. As mere creations of fancy these stories must take first rank.

——The American Claimant. 8vo, 300 pages, fully illustrated by Dan Beard. The strong point in this story is that in it Mark Twain reintroduces to American readers his most famous character, Col. Mulberry Sellers. This character is known, perhaps, more widely than any other fictitious personage in American literature. He became known both through the remarkable circulation of "The Gilded Age," in which Col. Sellers first appeared, and later through the impersonation of the character by John T. Raymond, who presented it year after year with great success, and appeared in this rôle in every town and city of any size in this country. About this inimitable character Mark Twain in this, his latest novel, has woven a delightful and original romance.

WARD, HERBERT. My Life With Stanley's Rear Guard. 12mo, 200 pages.

A friend of Mr. Stanley and one of the most trusted and experienced captains of the Rear Guard; many have wondered why Mr. Ward has kept comparatively silent while the controversy has been going on. In this book he speaks freely and fearlessly. He is not bitter nor prejudiced, but endeavors to do justice to his unfortunate companions by relating facts of which he produces ample proof. His narrative is absorbingly interesting, and throws new light on the Rear Guard troubles. An intensely exciting and clearly written volume.

BANGS, JOHN KENDRICK. Toppleton's Client; or, A Spirit in Exile. 12mo, 270 pages.

A semi-humorous story of the supernatural in the best vein of this popular writer. An utterly commonplace English barrister is persuaded to vacate his body at intervals in favor of an accomplished but wicked disembodied soul.

The latter achieves brilliant successes under its false guise, and finally makes off with the body altogether. The barrister's exiled spirit retains Toppleton to recover the lost body, and their efforts to do this are described in an entertaining manner.

BROOKS, HENRY S. A Catastrophe in Bohemia. 12mo, 372 pages, with frontispiece.

Many readers of periodical literature will immediately associate the name of Henry S. Brooks with a number of short stories, wherein the most interesting phases of life in the mining towns of the United States, Lower California and Mexico are strikingly and feelingly depicted.

Other stories than the one giving title to the volume are: "The Crazy Professor," "Doña Paula's Treasure, "The Don of Pauper Alley," "The Arrival of the Magpie," and "La Tiburona." These stories are all true to life, and perfectly preserve the atmosphere of the localities in which the scenes are laid. We believe that in interest and literary quality they will not fall below the work done by our most popular writers.

CRIM, MISS MATT. Elizabeth: Christian Scientist. 12mo, 350 pages.

The success of Miss Crim's previous works of fiction encourages us to announce her new novel with much confidence. The story deals with the career of a refined and deeply religious girl, who leaves her home in the Georgia mountains with the object of converting the world to Christian Science. Her romantic experiences in the great cities of the Union are vividly portrayed; and the fact that, after all, her destiny is to be loved and wedded does not detract from the book's interest. The true aims and spirit of Christian Science are set forth by Miss Crim in a manner calculated to do away with many false impressions.

CUSTER, MRS. ELIZABETH (author of Boots and Saddles). Tenting on the Plains. New cheap edition. 12mo, 403 pages, with illustrations.

This book was originally published in a very expensive edition and sold only by subscription. Many people who had read and enjoyed "Boots and Saddles" were anxious to read Mrs. Custer's next book, but were deterred by the high price of the book. This new edition is now published to meet this demand. It contains all the illustrations of the more expensive edition, is printed from new plates, and has an attractive new cover.

FRAIPONT, G. The Art of Sketching. 12mo, 100 pages, with fifty illustrations from drawings by the author. Translated from the French by Clara Bell. With preface by Edwin Bale, R. I.

That this little book is from the hand of a French artist will make it none the less acceptable to American students. Its references are mostly French because its author is so, and it is unnecessary, as well as undesirable, to disturb these in order to adapt them to American readers.

The treatise is mainly intended for the use of artists in Black and White. It is short, but it is practical and good; and if Americans do not know the work of the French artists referred to, it will be a useful experience for them to search it out.

GEORGE, HENRY. A Perplexed Philosopher, being an examination of Mr. Herbert Spencer's various utterances on the land question, with some incidental references to his Synthetic Philosophy. 12mo.

"Mr. George certainly has the courage of his convictions. . . . . Many who do not care for single tax theories will find enjoyment in Mr. George's dialectics, and while the fight goes on there is plenty of fur flying, with which other philosophers may line their own nests."—The Churchman.

——Protection or Free Trade. An examination of the tariff question with especial regard to the interests of labor. The most thorough and readable examination of the tariff question ever made. ——Property in Land. A Passage-at-arms between the Duke of Argyll and Henry George. ——The Condition of Labor. An Open Letter to Pope Leo XIII. With encyclical letter of Pope Leo XIII. on the condition of labor. As The Churchman says: "The two papers of this volume are models of dispassionate, thoughtful argument." In pleading for charity and benevolence to workmen the Pope presents the remedy for social ills most advocated by the exponents of all branches of Christianity. In his respectful and courteous reply Mr. George points out that charity and benevolence, unaccompanied by justice, can accomplish nothing; that even Christian socialism is not only futile, but dangerous, and makes the clearest and most striking presentation of the single tax theory from the moral and religious side.

ISAACS, ABRAM S., PH. D. (Ed. The Jewish Messenger). Stories from the Rabbis. 12mo.

The renewed interest of late years in Oriental themes has encouraged the author to present, in the guise of entertaining tales, a number of legends and fancies from the Talmud and Midrash, which illustrate the genial humanity of the olden rabbis. Mystery, romance, humor, benevolence, reverence for learning, form some of the themes which are treated in a peculiarly interesting and picturesque way. Dr. Isaacs has happily contrived to write in a popular style, avoiding cumbersome notes and explanations, but whetting the appetite for more. For young and old it is a delightful volume—appealing to book-lovers in general, and to students of Oriental lore in particular.

SCOLLARD, CLINTON. On Sunny Shores. 12mo, of about 300 pages, fully illustrated. Companion volume to "Under Summer Skies."

Professor Scollard has favored the public with another entertaining volume, descriptive of his poetical pilgrimages. The charm of style and daintiness of touch shown in his former book of travels is more than maintained. The reader is carried in a jaunty way along the Wye river, to "Ambleside," down the Neckar, through the Tyrol, over the Splugen, and tarries for a season at Bellaggio and Verona before proceeding to alluring scenes in Greece and Syria. Mrs. Margaret Landers Randolph again throws light upon the text with her imaginative illustrations, and, as in "Under Summer Skies," a number of Professor Scollard's fanciful poems, inspired by the events of the journey, are scattered through the volume.

TWAIN, MARK (Samuel L. Clemens). The £1,000,000 Bank Note and Other Stories. Small 8vo, 260 pages, with frontispiece by Dan Beard.

The Bank of England once issued two notes of a million pounds each. Two rich Englishmen—brothers—fell into a dispute as to what would become of an honest stranger turned adrift in London with no money but one of these million-pound bank notes, and no way to account for his being in possession of it.

How they found the man—a young American—and his adventures with the note, are fully related in the story.

The book contains other stories, many of which have never before appeared in print, and none in book form.

A UNIVERSAL ENGLISH-GERMAN AND GERMAN-ENGLISH DICTIONARY

By Dr Felix Flügel,

Fourth, entirely re-written Edition of J. G. Flügel's Complete Dictionary of the

ENGLISH AND GERMAN LANGUAGES.

English-German, 2 Vols.;
Substantially and Durably Bound in Full Sheep, $11.00. Half Morocco, $12.00.
German-English, 1 Vol.; " " 5.50. " " 6.00.

[From THE N. Y. NATION, Febr. 25, 1892.]

"The position of the present edition seems secure. It is destined to remain for a long period the standard dictionary of reference for translating between English and German, and a place should be found for it on the desk of every teacher and every advanced student of the two languages . . . .

The typographical effect of Flügel's dictionary is excellent. The type is small but clear, and all German words are consistently printed in German characters. . . . .

To sum up, the Flügel Dictionary is the fruit of honest, long-continued, legitimate scholarly work. An undertaking of this sort, which is no slight influence in aiding two peoples to a more intimate understanding of each other's literature and life, is worthy of a cordial welcome on this side of the ocean too."

CHURCH SUNDAY-SCHOOL LESSONS.

(THE UNIFORM SCHEME OF DIOCESAN COMMITTEES.)

1. THE BIBLE CLASS MANUAL.
2. THE LESSON BOOK. (For Senior and Middle Grades.)
3. PICTURE LESSONS FOR EVERY SUNDAY. (For Junior and Primary Grades.)
4. THE TEACHER'S ASSISTANT.

ALL EDITED BY REV. GEO. W. SHINN, D. D.

Issued Quarterly, beginning with Advent. Combined Circulation over 110,000 COPIES.

THE advantages we claim for these lesson quarterlies are: 1. Beauty of typography—they are attractive to children and easy to study. 2. Cheapness—being only $12.00 per hundred for the two main publications for a year; you can subscribe for any number at this rate for one, two, three, or four quarters. 3. They give all needed explanation of the hard parts of the lesson. 4. They suggest points for remarks by teachers and clergymen in reviewing the lesson. The first named can be used by teachers' classes and by advanced Bible classes; the second by the Senior and middle grades of the Sunday-school, while the picture lessons are especially adapted to the needs of primary classes and the infant school.

Clergymen and Sunday-school workers are particularly invited to examine these LESSON QUARTERLIES and TEACHER'S ASSISTANT, which will be mailed free on application.

"All structures receive fair, systematic treatment, and the author wisely avoids departing from the paths of what neurologists term 'coarse' anatomy."

"As a work of reference for any anatomist, surgeon, or physician it deserves to be placed in every library attached to medical or biological institutions."—British Medical Journal.

"The book in its entirety surpasses in point of practical utility anything ever offered the profession."

"The dissections of the female perineum alone are worth to a surgeon the price of the book."

"In our judgment this work is a desideratum to the surgeon's library long needed."—Daniel's Texas Medical Journal.

"In the outset we can say that no student of medicine, no surgeon, no physician can afford to be without this work. If we were able to have but one anatomy in our library, this would be the one we would choose."—Buffalo Medical and Surgical Journal.

"This is an admirable work, and will always find a place upon the shelves of every live practitioner of surgery and medicine."

"The plates elucidate every part so well that they appear to speak to us."

"The explanations of the illustrations are brief but to the point, and each sentence expresses no more or less than knowledge of the part justifies."—The Southern Practitioner.

"Fraenkel's book is just the thing for the general medical reader who wishes to inform himself about bacteria, as well as for the one who wishes to make personal investigations into the matter."—Northwestern Lancet.

"A long-felt want—that of a suitable text-book on bacteriology in the English language—has been happily filled by the translation of Fraenkel's 'Grundriss der Bakterienkunde,' a work which has won for itself a reputation on the Continent of Europe, and is now published in six different languages."—Pacific Medical Journal.

"Fraenkel's new Text-book of Bacteriology is truly a valuable contribution to the general knowledge of the subject, and should be in the hands of every working student of Microscopy and Bacteriology."—Columbus Medical Journal.

"A perusal of the book convinces the reader that it is the work of a master."—New York Medical Journal.

"This book of 366 pages, octavo, is doubtless the best work of its kind yet rendered in the English language."—Southern California Practitioner.

"The names of its author and translator are sufficient to stamp it as authoritative, and, in a new science like bacteriology, no information is so good as that which comes from the fountain head."—Buffalo Medical and Surgical Journal.

BACTERIOLOGICAL TECHNOLOGY FOR PHYSICIANS. Authorized Translation from the Second Revised Danish edition. 8vo, 163 pages, with 72 illustrations. Price, extra muslin, $1.25.

Sternberg, George M., M.D., F.R.M.S.,

Deputy Surgeon-General U. S. Army; Director of the Hoagland Laboratory, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Honorary Member of the Epidemiological Society of London, of the Royal Academy of Medicine of Rome, of the Academy of Medicine of Rio de Janeiro, of the American Academy of Medicine, etc.

A MANUAL OF BACTERIOLOGY. Illustrated by Heliotype and Chromo-lithographic plates and 321 engravings. 8vo, 850 pages. Price, muslin, $8.00; leather, $9 00 (subscription).

"This is the most extensive work on bacteriology that has yet appeared in the English language."—Medical Record.

"It is eminently fitting that Dr. Sternberg, who has himself done much to increase our knowledge of bacteriology, and who was one of the pioneers in the work in this country, should give to the English-reading public their first adequate survey of the bacteriological field. His manual at once takes its place as the standard bacteriology in the English language."—Science.

"Had the work not been so good, we should not have devoted so much time and space in its consideration, and while drawing attention to some of its failings, we do so only to emphasize the many good features of Dr. Sternberg's manual."—The Lancet.

"The work before us will prove of the greatest value to those who wish a book of reference, dealing with all branches of bacteriological science. So laborious a task as the compilation of this closely printed volume of nearly 900 pages has not been previously attempted by any bacteriologist. To the publishers, too, the highest praise is due for the admirable series of illustrations with which the text is supplied."—Edinburgh Medical Journal.

"There is no better work on the subject in the English language than this one by Dr. Sternberg."—The Pittsburgh Medical Review.

"Dr. Sternberg deserves, and will certainly receive, the gratitude of all English-speaking bacteriologists for having summoned up courage enough to carry through upon so excellent a plan that which all others have refused to venture upon. In this manual, we at last possess an authoritative and very complete book of reference."—Montreal Medical Journal.

LESSONS IN PHYSICAL DIAGNOSIS. Tenth revised edition. One volume, 8vo, 290 pages, illustrated, muslin. Price, $3.00.

"The previous editions of this volume have been very well received, and, from their ready sale, appear to meet a well-recognized want. . . . We find the plan of the work excellent, and, within the limits proposed by the author, very well carried out. It would be easy to point out many omissions; completeness and conciseness to a certain degree exclude each other; but in the space assumed it would be difficult to include a greater variety and amount of sound teaching. The style is compact, clear, positive, and exact. It is free from all irrelevant discussions; nothing is allowed to disturb or confuse the distinct image of clinical facts. . . . The book is very creditable to its acute and industrious author; and whoever shall practically master its contents cannot fail to be a discriminating and well-furnished diagnostician."—The Medical Record.

"For students it is the best work on physical diagnosis that is published."—Detroit Review of Medicine.

"This is a work already well and favorably known to the profession. In the present edition the original text has been entirely revised and enlarged by the addition of five new lessons."—Chicago Medical Examiner.

"Students of medicine and practitioners will find this just the work to meet their wants on the subjects of which it treats. Its instructions are full and very plain."—Cincinnati Medical News.

"The previous editions of the work, confined to an exposition of the subject of physical exploration of the chest and abdomen, we have regarded as among the very best works on the subject extant, and hence recommended 'Loomis on Physical Diagnosis' to our classes; and it gives us pleasure to repeat, in this form, our hearty commendation of the book."—Michigan University Medical Journal.

"With the exception of Macleod's 'Outlines,' published simultaneously in England and in this country, in 1864, this is, so far as we know, the first monograph ever issued on surgical diagnosis."—Philadelphia Medical Times.

"The chief source of perplexity in the practice of medicine and surgery is to find out what is the matter with the patient. Uncomfortable, indeed, is the reflection of a practitioner when he has left a case bandaged and dressed for a fracture when, perchance, it may be a dislocation. Dr. Ranney has given us a book to assist us in all such states of uncertainty, and he has done well; for in presenting the symptoms of disease in marked contrast, it makes the diagnosis of similar troubles really easy."—*Toledo Med. and Surg. A PRACTICAL TREATISE ON THE DISEASES OF THE EAR, INCLUDING THE ANATOMY OF THE ORGAN. Seventh edition. One volume, 8vo, 763 pages. Illustrated by 140 wood-engravings and chromo-lithographs. Price, muslin, $5.50; leather, $6.50.

"If any one has the right to speak authoritatively upon otological matters, it is Dr. Roosa, for it is he who, more than any one else, has made known to the American medical profession the general principles of treatment of aural diseases; and it is safe to say that no book upon any special subject has been more widely distributed throughout the country than has his admirable treatise. If this work be carefully studied, it will be seen that two main ideas run through the whole of what has been written; first, that a skilful treatment of ear-troubles involves a consummate knowledge of general medicine; second, that the measure of success is determined by the thoroughness which the practitioner brings to the examination of his cases, before applying his simple armamentarium.

"It is carefully inculcated that nothing is to be done without a knowledge of what is required, and that practice 'in the dark' (tentative practice) is less justifiable in this branch of medicine than in any other."—The Medical Record.

Sexton, Samuel, M.D.,

Aural Surgeon to the New York Eye and Ear Infirmary; Fellow of the American Otological Society; Fellow of the New York Academy of Medicine; Member of the Medical Society of the County of New York, and of the Practitioners' Society of New York.

THE EAR AND ITS DISEASES, BEING PRACTICAL CONTRIBUTIONS TO THE STUDY OF OTOLOGY. Edited by CHRISTOPHER J. COLLES, M.D. Octavo, 473 pages. 1888. Numerous illustrations. Extra muslin, $4.00.

"We have examined this work with pleasure and unhesitatingly pronounce it a work of great merit. The individualism of the author stands out prominently in many of its paragraphs and hints."—The St. Louis Medical Journal.

". . . It is a useful book to general practitioners and a very important book to specialists."—Virginia Medical Monthly.

"In many respects this work of Dr. Sexton's is unique. It is a wide departure from the beaten path, and contains a large amount of material which has never before, so far as we know, been treated in any one book, and much of it has never before been treated in a thorough manner."—Science, New York.

"In this age of compilation, when the sole aim of each new book seems to be the recital of what has been done by everyone except the author, . . . it is refreshing to find a book of real originality, one that is based neither upon borrowed opinions nor upon unsupported theory, but upon the solid ground of long continued and intelligent personal observation. Such a book Dr. Sexton has produced in the volume before us."—New York Medical Journal.

"It is the pleasant part of the Reviewer's task to praise work well done. This cheerful duty is ours in calling attention to the work noticed above. Dr. Sexton has written a book which merits the description of its title-page. It is a book of 'Practical Contributions to the Study of Otology.'"—Buffalo Medical and Surgical Journal.

"The book may therefore be taken as a reflected image of the diseases which will ordinarily meet the physician in general practice, and, as such, it will be found of the utmost service, embracing as it does the latest methods in diagnosis and treatment."—The Medical Bulletin, Philadelphia.

Eighth edition. Revised by A. D. ROCKWELL, M.D. One volume, 8vo, 815 pages, one hundred and eighty-nine wood-engravings. Price, muslin, $5.50; leather, $6.50.

"The impression it gives at first sight is very favorable; it is beautifully printed, and illustrated with woodcuts in a way which cannot fail to be most useful to students.

"The matter of the volume, again, is admirably arranged; better than in any book of the kind which I have seen.

"References are numerous and accurate, and we are delighted to have that which we lack so much in almost all other such books, namely, complete indexes, both verbal and bibliographical. They have perfected, if they did not originate, a method of electro-therapy which they call general faradization.

"It is a pleasing feature in the present volume that the unsuccessful cases bear their just proportion to the successful, and that in other instances where success was incomplete there is no attempt to make the results more satisfactory than they really were."—British and Foreign Medico-Chirurgical Review.

"More important assistance perhaps is given by the illustrations to the chapters, or the modus operandi, where the various methods of applying the apparatus in the treatment of the different affections is explained."—London Journal of Mental Science.

Embryology—Diseases of the Eye.

Minot, Charles Sedgwick, M.D.,

Assistant Professor of Histology and Embryology in the Harvard Medical School, Boston.

HUMAN EMBRYOLOGY. Royal 8vo, 825 pages, 463 illustrations. Price, extra muslin, $8.00.

"This is the most note-worthy work in English upon embryology that has appeared since the publication of F. M. Balfour's well-known Comparative Embryology. When we take into account the innate difficulties of the subject, it is amazing to find how easily this book can be read, and how clearly the information is put. It will, no doubt, take its place as the standard work on the subject among English-speaking scientists."—Edinburgh Medical Journal.

"It is practically impossible for any but a special student of embryology to do justice to this monument of industry. But even the general medical reader, who has only a superficial knowledge of the subject, can appreciate the years of steady, patient work that have been required to collect and digest the material necessary to complete such an exhaustive treatise. The mere verification of the bibliographical references alone must have required months of research."—Medical Record.

"It contains the results of many years of labor by one of the great powers of observation, perfectly familiar with all technical methods, and accomplished in their use, of wide reading, and of indomitable perseverance. All these qualities are shown in this book, which at once claims a place by itself in English literature."—Boston Medical and Surgical Journal.

"The historical sketch at the end of many of the chapters makes the book of increased value to students of embryology as well as to others.

"The reference list, comprising only such articles as were actually referred to in the course of the book, covers thirteen pages. The illustrations throughout are as clear and excellent as they are numerous."—American Journal of the Medical Sciences.

"We are certain that no biologist will permit this opportunity of obtaining such a treatise to escape him. The serious student will also avail himself of the opportunity which has so generously been afforded by the publishers, of possessing a work which marks an era in biological progress."—St. Louis Medical and Surgical Journal.

"This work can scarcely receive justice in a short review, for each chapter deserves special mention and praise."—Montreal Medical Journal.

"Biologists will find not only the most comprehensive treatment of the embryological subjects properly so called, but also of many problems of morphology, phylogeny, and general biology. . . . It is superbly illustrated by four hundred and sixty-three fine engravings, many of them of the most delicate character, mostly original with the author, and nearly all specially drawn and engraved for this work."—Columbus Medical Journal.

"There has been nothing hitherto giving so comprehensive a view of vertebrate embryology, nor any book better adapted to the needs of the lecturer who wishes to brush up his knowledge previous to presenting himself before his class."—Medical News.

"It presents so many points of superlative excellence that it is difficult to select any portion for special praise, and this fact, to our mind, is the highest eulogy that could be bestowed upon its talented author."—The California Homœopath.

"On the whole, we must say, in justice to ourselves, to the author, and to the publisher, that it is the best, neatest, and cleanest text-book on ophthalmology that has been our good fortune to examine."—Buffalo Medical and Surgical Journal.

"The book before us is a brilliant testimonial of the extensive knowledge, vast experience, untiring industry, and literary ability of its celebrated author. It presents the actual stand-point of ophthalmology more completely than any other text-book in the English language."—Knapp's Archives of Ophthalmology.

"This is the most complete and systematic treatise upon the diseases of the eye that has yet been written by an American."—Northwestern Lancet.

"The entire treatise is pervaded by the spirit of an extended experience. It is constantly evident that the pen is wielded by one who has seen and is familiar with the things of which he writes."—Therapeutic Gazette.

A TREATISE ON BRIGHT'S DISEASE OF THE KIDNEYS; ITS PATHOLOGY, DIAGNOSIS, AND TREATMENT. Third edition, revised and enlarged. 8vo, 322 pages, numerous original illustrations, extra parchment muslin. Price, $3.00.

"It is rare that we find a book so evidently the result of careful, original study, so fresh from the bedside, we may say, as the one before us."—Medical and Surgical Reporter.

"Few books come upon our table which receive greater attention than this one. It is well worth a careful study by those who desire to become acquainted with the morbid condition of the kidneys."—Medical Bulletin.

"Of the many books that have been written on special subjects within the last few years, we have have met with no one that has given so much satisfaction as that before us. From the beginning to the end the book before us is like an egg, in that it is full of meat, so good that we cannot give preference of one part to another. It is a book every young practitioner should have in his library, not only to be on its shelves, but to be read and studied."—The Therapeutic Gazette.

"It is somewhat a relief to now and then chance upon a new book not born of scissors, with its fragments stuck together by a more or less adhesive cement of supposition. No one can rise from its perusal without conceding to it the marks of thoughtful arrangement, of clearness, and conscientious labor. These characters have been officially recognized in authoritative quarters already. The work is a timely one. Its concise, practicable direcl tions for chemical examinations, and its suggestions as to climate and various mineral-waters, are of no minor value."—New York Medical Times.

His remarks upon the therapy of Albuminuria are full of wise, practical suggestions, the direct results of a wide clinical experience."—Medical Register, Philadelphia.

"The book comprises the author's lectures delivered at various times during the past two years, and is a very clear exposition of a very important subject. . . . Albuminuria, from every cause, is fully discussed and the treatment given. An excellent list of references is appended."—Maryland Medical Journal, Baltimore.

A PRACTICAL TREATISE ON BRIGHT'S DISEASE OF THE KIDNEYS. One volume, 8vo, 334 pages, illustrated with seven lithographic plates, cloth. Price, $4.50.

"This is a valuable contribution to the study of a class of diseases which has enlisted a great amount of laborious investigation during the last twenty or thirty years. It is an original work, illustrated with plates, exhibiting very impressively the morbid changes which the kidneys undergo in the various and distinct forms with which the name of Bright is inseparably and honorably associated. . . .

"The subject throughout is handled by a master mind. To the general practitioner, and especially to those interested in diseases of the kidneys, the work is invaluable."—Pacific Medical and Surgical Journal.

"The subject matter of the work, the lucid and attractive manner of its treatment, the literary references, and the handsome illustrations, 186 in number, all combine to make the work a most valuable one for the study of vegetable histology, preliminary to that of materia medica."—American Journal of Pharmacy.

"American pharmacy can well be congratulated upon the addition of this work to its literature, and the modest wish of the translator, that it may receive the appreciation which it merits, should certainly meet with a hearty and spontaneous reponse.—Pharmaceutische Rundschau.

C., etc.; and

Wall, Otto A., M.D., Ph.G.,

Professor of Materia Medica, Therapeutics, and Pharmacy in the Missouri Medical College, and of Materia Medica and Botany in the St. Louis College Pharmacy; Member of the Committee of Revision of the Pharmacopœia of the United States, etc.

A COMPANION TO THE UNITED STATES PHARMACOPŒIA. Second edition. Being a Commentary on the Latest Edition of the Pharmacopœia, and containing the Descriptions, Properties, Uses, and Doses of all Official and numerous Unofficial Drugs and Preparations in current use in the United States, together with Practical Hints, Working Formulas, etc., designed as a ready reference book for Pharmacists, Physicians, and Students, with over 300 original Illustrations. Price, in cloth, $5.00; in leather, $6.00.

☞ The "COMPANION TO THE UNITED STATES PHARMACOPŒIA" gives succinctly the name, synonyms (including all common or local English, together with the German, French, Spanish, and Swedish names), origin, habitat, description, varieties, substitutions, adulterations, common defects, marks of quality, properties, uses and doses of all the drugs and chemicals of which it treats, and under each drug or chemical will be described its several preparations, with formulas for making these.

All formulas given are in definite quantities, solids by weight, and liquids generally by measure, the official formulas (in parts by weight) having been translated accurately according to the same plan.

The book thus serves as a key and companion to the Pharmacopœia. It gives only such information as pharmacists and physicians most frequently have occasion to put to practical use in their daily vocations, and hence botanical descriptions of plants, except of the parts seen in drugs, chemical processes, accounts of the physiological actions of medicines, etc., are omitted, and the articles treated of have been considered rather with reference to actual conditions and requirements of the trade and the practice of the professions concerned than from the standpoint of a text-book.

One volume, 8vo, 660 pages. Price, muslin, $6.00; or colored leather, $7.00.

"A complete exposition of the subject, thoroughly indispensable to the practical microscopist."—Chicago Medical Journal.

"The work is presented very modestly, yet we find it not only very accurate in all its details of process, but complete as regards variety of topics treated. The condensed style of the author, the fairness of his nature, together with his understanding of histology, permit an unbiassed discussion of nearly all questions of microscopic anatomy, and many of obscure pathology. The rules for testing and selecting an instrument are especially valuable to one about to purchase."—New York Journal of Medicine.

"Those who are familiar with Frey's admirable manual will feel grateful to Dr. Cutter for his very readable translation, which enables our American and English students who are unacquainted with the German tongue to participate in the instructions of the renowned Zurich professor. These directions for investigation possess an especial value to the American observer, on account of the explicit manner in which are described the manifold improved methods of demonstrating the various structures in their healthy or diseased conditions. To sum up all, we think that this handsome volume is one which the working microscopist cannot afford to do without."—Philadelphia Medical Times.

PRACTICAL MICROSCOPY. A Course of Normal Histology for Students and Practitioners of Medicine. Octavo, 217 pages. Price, extra muslin, $2.00.

"This book we would commend most highly. There is no want of excellent books on the same subject, but, as a rule, they are adapted for the advanced student and skilled microscopist. The majority of doctors who have microscopes, however, have not had the advantages of modern laboratory training, and to them a work which gives the processes for the preparation and exhibition of tissues, which are simple and practical and free from details of technique applicable only to the expert, will be of great service. Again, the work differs from many more pretentious works, in that the illustrations, which are numerous, are mostly original, being from the author's pen drawings."—Buffalo Medical and Surgical Journal.

"We know of no book equal to this for students who wish to take up the study of histology during vacation, or for practitioners who, having had no laboratory advantages during pupilage nor time now to devote to work in post-graduate schools, still desire to gain some knowledge of microscopy for its practical uses. The book assumes that the reader has a fair knowledge of gross anatomy, but knows nothing of histology. The illustrations are fine and are decidedly refreshing, in that they are out of the stereotyped assortment which have done service for so many years in other publications.—Columbus Medical Journal.

TEXT-BOOK OF NERVOUS DISEASES. Being a Compendium for the Use of Students and Practitioners of Medicine. (American Series of Medical Text-Books.) 8vo, 460 pages, 210 illustrations. Price, $3.25.

"Dr. Dana has given us the fullest, the most concise, and altogether the best manual on nervous diseases that has yet appeared, not only for the student and the general practitioner, but also for the specialist. It has stood the test for the past two months of being the first book consulted on doubtful points arising in actual work, and it has seldom, if ever, failed to be a useful guide."—Boston Medical and Surgical Journal.

"Of all the American works on neurology this impresses us most favorably."—Therapeutic Gazette.

"It can be said, and with truth, that it would be difficult to recommend a more suitable volume to one who is desirous of getting a sound, comprehensive knowledge of neurology, and that fully abreast with the times. The book is a credit, not alone to the author, but to American neurologists."—Journal of Nervous and Mental Diseases.

"This is really a text-book, well deserving the name and written with a most careful eye to the needs of the student. The descriptions are all as brief as clearness will allow, and it is thus possible to cover the whole range of diseases of the nervous system in a volume of very moderate size."—Northwestern Lancet.

"The work before us is one well worthy of commendation, and as far as its limits will permit represents in a condensed form the state of our knowledge of diseases of the nervous system."—Medical and Surgical Reporter.

"For the physician in general practice, and for the student in college, we know of no single volume on nervous diseases that will give him so much information, and in so concise a manner, as the above work."—Western Medical Reporter.

"The work is not a mere sketch; in fact, its encyclopædic fulness is marvellous, and even debatable points that might be fairly omitted without detriment to the projected plan of the work are presented together with the author's own views thereon. We warmly recommend the book to the student and general practitioner."—Journal of Homœopathy.

"Considering the scope and aims of this compendium, it may be safely said to be the best American production in the field of today."—New York Therapeutic Review.

STUDIES IN PATHOLOGICAL ANATOMY. Volume I., treating of the following subjects: Phthisis, Peritonitis, Pleurisy, Pneumonia, Empyema, Hydrothorax, Bronchitis, and Tuberculosis. Illustrated with ninety-three full-page and double-page plates made by the following processes: Wood-engravings of Original Drawings on the Block, Etchings on Copper, Lithographs from Original Drawings on the Stone, and Photographs of Specimens. Royal 8vo, bound in half morocco, gilt top, plates hinged on linen guards. Price, $20.00.

Volume II.: Broncho-Pneumonia, Chronic Phthisis, Lobar Pneumonia, Acute Bright's Disease, Chronic Bright's Disease. Illustrated with one hundred and thirty-three full and double page plates hinged on linen guards, similar to those of Vol. I. Royal 8vo, bound in half morocco, gilt top. Price, $20.00.

"Professor Delafield's 'Studies in Pathological Anatomy,' to which we have referred so frequently on the appearance of the different parts, have thus far been collected in a single magnificent volume, royal octavo size, and superbly illustrated with ninety-three full- and double-page plates. The author's object has been to describe and figure the minute lesions of disease from the material which has fallen under his own observation. In this respect the book has a peculiar value, in representing individual work in a wide and carefully cultivated field. The results of these labors are presented for what they are worth as demonstrated facts, nothing more and nothing less. As very modestly stated by our author, his plan of study simply involved the following of Nature wherever she might lead. Consequently, in viewing the admirable presentation of microscopical appearances, we are privileged to sit, as it were, beside the master and almost view the specimens with his eye. And here let us say that probably in no similar work ever before published are there collected so many beautiful and valuable representations of pathological lesions than in the one before us. The processes by which these admirable results are obtained are as follows: Autographic photo-lithographs from original drawings, heliotypes from original drawings, wood-engravings of original drawings on the block, etchings on copper, lithographs from original drawings on the stone, artotypes of original drawings, photographs of specimens. The fidelity of these illustrations is beyond praise, while their execution in the different methods alluded to make them specimens of high art. The subjects specially treated of in the first volume are phthisis, peritonitis, pleurisy, pneumonia, empyema, hydrothorax, bronchitis, tuberculosis. The pathology of each one of these diseases is tersely and comprehensively described in connection with the plates, thus giving the reader the advantages of clinical as well as pathological study of the different lesions.

"We cannot congratulate the author too warmly on the results of his labors thus far, nor can we recommend the work too strongly to the progressive student and the advanced pathologist. The volume is elegantly printed, tastefully bound, and aside from its other merits is a triumph of typographical art."—The Medical Record.

Ziegler, Ernst,

Professor of Pathological Anatomy in the University of Tübingen.

A TEXT-BOOK OF GENERAL PATHOLOGICAL ANATOMY AND PATHOGENESIS. Translated and edited for English students by RONALD MCALISTER, A.M., M.D., Member of the Royal College of Physicians; Fellow and Medical Lecturer of St. John's College, Cambridge. Three Parts complete in one volume, 8vo, 1,118 pages, two hundred and eighty-nine illustrations. Price, extra muslin, $5.50; sheep, $6.50.

"The book has a two-fold merit; the text is not overladen with detail, and is therefore valuable as a text-book; and its ample bibliographical records render it equally valuable as a work of reference. Dr. MacAlister deserves the best thanks of pathologists for his labor and skill as translator and editor; and the publishers also may be congratulated upon the excellent manner in which they have fulfilled their part in its production."—The Lancet, London, April 9, 1887.

"As a rule the pathology of the skin has been too much specialized and kept more or less out of works professing to include a sketch of the entire science of pathology. Ziegler and MacAlister include in this general work all the special details that are to be found in the monographs of eminent dermatologists. A reference to the illustrations of this section is alone sufficient to show its value. . . . The text accompanying these illustrations is very complete, so that we find a complete treasury of dermatological knowledge within a work on general and special pathology. . . . The section on pathology of the mucous membranes is of the highest value."—British Medical Journal.

"Dr. Ziegler is one of the ablest of the modern German pathologists, and it is among them that the most careful and thorough studies in this department have been now for many years carried on."—St. Louis Courier of Medicine.

"There is a growing liking among us for German medical literature, and this work may be found to satisfy a want in this direction. The book is well translated, and the part on parasites, vegetable and animal, will be found more full and up to the present time than anything in the English language."—American Practitioner.

"The illustrations are excellent, and the text is developed with the wonted care of this great teacher."—The Louisville Medical News.

"Professor Ziegler is conceded authority for both Europe and America. . . . A work of rich excellence for the professional worker."—St. Louis Medical Journal.

"It is only occasionally that even celebrated men write a thoroughly useful and reliable book for students, a book which, while it contains all that is necessary, is not so large as to be hindersome. Professor Ziegler seems to have been successful in accomplishing such a work. The translation is an excellent one, and the work is confidently recommended to all who wish an exhaustive and readable book on pathology, and one thoroughly up to the times."—Canadian Practitioner.

"We can most heartily recommend the book to the profession, and prophesy for it as great a success here as abroad."—Boston Medical and Surgical Journal.

"This is an eminently practical work, based upon the author's unusual experience and close observation, but with sufficient reference to the general literature of each subject discussed to make it a very comprehensive treatise, and practically complete."—The Sanitarian.

"In the work now presented we recognize a superior text-book, adapted to the use of the student."—Homœopathic Journal.

"We know of no work in any language which so fully and completely represents the pathological knowledge of the day."—Canada Medical and Surgical Journal.

MEMORANDA OF PHYSIOLOGY. Third edition. Thoroughly revised, with additions and corrections by an American editor. 18mo, 319 pages, muslin. Price, $1.00. (Wood's Pocket Manuals.)

"This valuable addition to the popular series, Wood's Pocket Manuals, was originally compiled for the use of the students of the Liverpool School of Medicine, when preparing for the primary examination of the College of Surgeons. The author was induced to bring them out in print, in the hope that they might prove useful to a wider class of students. Quain's and Gray's Anatomies and Foster's 'Text-book of Physiology' were the sources upon which much of the information contained in the work was founded. The seventeen sections embrace concise data on Physiological Chemistry, Physiological Histology, The Blood, The Circulation, Lymphatic System, Respiration, Animal Heat, Food, Digestion, Absorption and Nutrition, The Liver, The Kidneys, The Ductless Glands, Nervous System, The Senses, Speech, and Organs of Generation; and the Appendix; Ingesta and Egesta, Metric System, and Thermometer Scales. A complete index makes the usefulness of the little book readily available."

HANDBOOK OF PHYSIOLOGY. By W. MORRANT BAKER, F.R.C.S., Surgeon to St. Bartholomew's Hospital and Consulting Surgeon to the Evelina Hospital for Sick Children; Lecturer on Physiology at St. Bartholomew's Hospital, and late Member of the Board of Examiners of the Royal College of Surgeons of England, and VINCENT DORMER HARRIS, M.D. Lond., Demonstrator of Physiology at St. Bartholomew's Hospital. Twelfth edition. In one volume, with a colored plate and five hundred illustrations. Price, muslin, $4.00; leather, $5.00.

". . Fully up to the latest developments in the science of which it treats. The illustrations are well selected and will be found very helpful to the student in his efforts to comprehend and master even the most intricate portions of the subject."—The Hahnemannian, Philadelphia, Pa.

"Indeed, the order of subjects and arrangement of matter throughout the volume are most excellent, and, as a handbook, the absence of all controversial argumentation on settled points is an additional recommendation of its value. The illustrations can hardly be called beautiful, but they are well drawn and instructive, and this is the chief end of a picture in a work on physiology."—The American Practitioner, Louisville, Ky.

"As a guide for the student, and ready reference for the practitioner, this work is not excelled by any other in the English language for the clearness of statement of established facts in the science of which it treats."—The Sanitarian, New York.

"The Messrs. Wood do not intend to forget the juniors and give them therefore the best works at a nominal price. There is hardly a practitioner of some years who did not learn the principles of physiology from Kirkes, and any work which reaches an eleventh edition, shows its intrinsic value."—The North American Journal of Homœopathy, Philadelphia.

A TEXT-BOOK OF PRACTICAL MEDICINE. One handsome 8vo volume of 1,147 pages, illustrated by two hundred and eleven engravings. Eighth edition. Price, in cloth, $6.00; leather, $7.00.

"The work before us is a complete comprehensive treatise on general pathology and practical medicine. The arrangement and classification is that which the author has observed in teaching, and is based on advanced pathological knowledge."—Louisville Medical News.

"A careful examination of the book creates the impression that it is the work of one who speaks that which he himself knows. It is not, as is too often the case in such works, a mere revamping of statements which have been perpetuated through a long series of treatises on the practice of medicine."—Medical Age.

"The work traverses the usual field of internal pathology considered in text-books upon the practice of medicine; but it does so with evidences of such unusual discretion and skill as to present the subject in a fresh light, and to constitute a most acceptable addition to medical literature. The illustrations are abundant, original, and, as a rule, neatly drawn, and well illustrate the text, in which the subjects are discussed in the light of the most recent additions to our knowledge of pathology and therapeutics."—The Philadelphia Medical Times.

"It is an elaborate work of 1,102 pages, with a full index, and is issued in the publisher's best style. It must be rated as one of the standard works on the theory and practice of medicine in this country, and should have a preference over those emanating from Europe, even if re-edited in this country."—The Therapeutic Gazette.

"We feel confident in asserting that it will only need to be seen in the coming years to make its brilliant crimson binding an every-day sight in the most of our medical colleges."—Southern Practitioner.

"We regard Dr. Page's book as a good digest of the practice of medicine. It is written in an easy, natural style, and the author's aim has evidently been to aid the practitioner in recognizing and treating the various diseases he may be expected to encounter in the practice of medicine as it exists to-day."—London Lancet.

"He has avoided argument upon disputed points, has omitted almost altogether the relation of his subject to pathological anatomy, and has devoted his attention mainly to clinical phenomena and treatment. This, of course, constitutes the practical side of medicine, and must ever commend itself to the majority of the profession."—New York Medical Journal.

THERAPEUTIC HANDBOOK OF THE UNITED STATES PHARMACOPŒIA. Being a condensed statement of the Physiological and Toxic Action, Medicinal Value, Methods of Administration, and Doses of the Drugs and Preparations in the Latest Edition of the United States Pharmacopœia (Apothecaries' and Metric System), with some remarks on Unofficinal Preparations. One volume, 8vo, 300 pages, muslin. Price, $3.50.

☞ The "HANDBOOK OF THE UNITED STATES PHARMACOPŒIA" is intended to be a commentary, from a medical rather than from a pharmaceutic point of view, upon the latest edition of that work, which is just completed, and which contains many more changes than have been made in any of the previous revisions.

As the Pharmacopœia now stands, it represents a very extensive pharmaceutic armamentarium, embracing all the important introductions to therapeutics of the last ten or perhaps twenty years.

It is evident that a complete treatise on therapeutics is not to be looked for in a work of this size, even if the author felt himself confident to write one, but it has been his aim to show, as succinctly as is consistent with clearness, what each drug can do in the treatment of disease, what it may do if not carefully used, and how far the various preparations are fitted to display its remedial powers. While theories erected upon slender foundations have been generally neglected, the physiological action of drugs has been stated, in accordance with recent investigations, so far as it bears upon their practical uses and upon the symptoms and treatment of poisoning which may be occasioned by them. This knowledge, so far as obtainable, while it can never supplant the final test of careful and unprejudiced clinical observation, is of the utmost importance as a basis for the rational use of drugs, and, especially so, as a stepping-stone for the advance of therapeutic science.

Much attention has been paid to the very important subject of dosage, and while the endeavor has been to err, if at all, on the side of safety, the necessity of producing in some cases obvious effects, if it is desired to get therapeutic results, has not been overlooked.

It is hoped that this book will be found by the physician a trustworthy guide in utilizing the agencies which the Pharmacopœia places in his hands, and by the pharmacist a brief and intelligible statement of what may be expected from the substance he dispenses.

Professor of the Principles and Practice of Medicine in University College; Physician to University College Hospital.

A HANDBOOK OF THERAPEUTICS, WITH DIETARY AND INDEX OF DISEASES. Twelfth edition. Price, muslin, $5.00; leather, $6.00.

"Upon the appearance of that now indispensable work, 'Ringer's Handbook of Therapeutics,' my attention was particularly attracted to the frequency with which he recommends small doses of medicines that we have been accustomed to use in much larger doses for entirely different diseases. Some of these remedies were recommended so strongly, that I was induced to give them a trial, more especially as my practice among children compels me, for many reasons, to administer as little unpleasant-tasting medicines as possible. Their use with children first having been found satisfactory, my position in connection with the New York Dispensary afforded me the opportunity of further testing them in numerous cases of adults."—DR. DESSEAU in Medical Record, July 28, 1877.

"The author has selected everything of substantial value among the recent advances in therapeutics. It is a practical work, replete with interest and reliable information, and will be found to be one which can be consulted by the practitioner with much benefit. We would advise every young physician to procure and read the book. It fills all the author claims for it in letter and spirit, and is written in such a clear and simple style that all who read it will do so with pleasure."—Western Lancet.

"The volume is one of value alike to the special and general worker, and we congratulate Dr. Ingalls upon the successful accomplishment of a confessedly difficult work."—Medical Record.

"An excellent book of reference for the student in laryngology, or the practising physician, and is essential to the library of the laryngologist."—Boston Medical and Surgical Journal.

The appendix is rich in therapeutic formulæ—valuable alike to the general practitioner and specialist—so that this is the one book that both laryngologists, etc., and general practitioners should have."—Virginia Medical Monthly.

"The physical signs of disease occupy the most prominent place, and there is no book in which they can be better studied, since their direct connection in the text with the description of the other features of disease is calculated to give the student a more complete picture than he would get from a work on physical diagnosis alone."—Northwestern Lancet.

ON THE PATHOLOGY AND TREATMENT OF GONORRHŒA AND SPERMATORRHŒA. 8vo, 484 pages, illustrated. Price, extra muslin, $4.00.

"We recommend this as a book which has the merit of striving to clear up old errors, which are numerous, and to substitute treatment in gonorrhœa and in spermatorrhœa as educed from the best practice of contemporaries, coupled with that of the mature experience of the author.—North Carolina Medical Journal.

"The treatment of Spermatorrhœa and Impotence occupies the closing chapters of a work which the reader will find to be carefully and ably written, and one of the greatest value to him as an authority for reference.—Pacific Medical and Surgical Journal.

"The author does not believe in the propagation of gonorrhœa, otherwise than by specific contagion, and scouts the idea that it ever originates from extraneous causes.

"From his large clinical experience, the author has introduced many illustrative cases which greatly add to the interest and value of his work.

"The work forms quite an exhaustive treatise upon the subject and will amply repay an attentive perusal. The treatment is not such as will commend itself to the judgment of a homœopathic practitioner, nevertheless the student in pursuit of knowledge upon this subject will find much in it that is interesting and instructive outside the field of therapeutics."—Homœopathic Journal of Obstetrics.

"Nothing has been recommended in this work, but what has stood the brunt, not merely of experience, for that the author rates rather low, but of special observation. The author's aim has been as far as possible to separate clearly what might be looked on as established from what was doubtful, and not merely to prove every assertion, but to place it on such a basis that it could not be disproved. After the history and pathology, four chapters are devoted to the treatment."—Canada Medical Record.

"This book is, by all odds, the best in any language upon its subject. The History, the Pathology, and the Treatment of Gonorrhœa are given in full, and comparative tests of the different methods of treatment. Nothing is recommended in this work but what has stood the brunt, not merely of experience, for that the author rates rather low, but of special observation. The author's aim has been, as far as possible, 'to separate clearly what might be looked on as established from what was doubtful, and not merely to prove every assertion, but to place it on such a basis that it could not be disproved.' The author has accomplished his task with gratifying success, and the additional section upon spermatorrhœa but adds to the value of the work."—Medical Herald, Louisville, Ky.

ANATOMICAL STUDIES UPON BRAINS OF CRIMINALS. A CONTRIBUTION TO ANTHROPOLOGY, MEDICINE, JURISPRUDENCE, AND PSYCHOLOGY. Translated from the German by E. P. Fowler, M.D., New York; Department of Translation, New York Medico-Chirurgical Society. Illustrated with wood-engravings. One volume, 8vo, 185 pages, muslin. Price, $1.50.

"It is strictly scientific philanthropy, and reaches to the scope of true humanizing. Comprehending as it does the psychology of our existence, it lays hold on facts most pertinent to the welfare of society, individually and collectively. In fact, it opens up a very broad and entirely neglected source of infinite study, and should awaken new research into mental phenomena.

"Dr. Benedikt is of opinion that an inability to restrain themselves from the repetition of a crime, notwithstanding the full appreciation of the superior power of the law, and a lack of the sentiment of wrong, though with a clear perception of it, constitute the two principal psychological characteristics of a class to which belongs more than one-half of condemned criminals.

"He shows deficiencies in the cerebral constitution of criminals, viz.: deficient gyrus development, and a consequent excess of fissures, which are fundamental defects. These defects are evident throughout the entire extent of the brain. The work is of great value."—Western Medical Reporter.

THE INCIDENTAL EFFECTS OF DRUGS, A PHARMACOLOGICAL AND CLINICAL HANDBOOK. Translated by W. T. ALEXANDER, M.D. One volume, 8vo, 239 pages, muslin. Price, $2.00.

"That individuals vary in their susceptibility to drugs, and that idiosyncrasies of the most unexpected character reveal themselves in practice, are observations of very ancient date. So startling are these accidental effects that sometimes their cause is apt to escape detection. Variations in the phenomena of disease are not more common than variations in the action of drugs, depending largely, like the disease phenomena, on the acquired or inherited peculiarities of the patient. Facts belonging to this category abound in the medical periodicals and in the unwritten experience of doctors, but Dr. Lewin is the first to make a book by collecting and classifying these data, and adding to them his own observations sharpened by special study. He deserves credit for breaking new ground in the first place, and in the second for annotating, with admirable judgment, this somewhat neglected branch of knowledge."—Louisville Medical News.

"This elaborate, elegantly printed, and illustrated work contains a full description of everything pertaining to thermometry—the character of the instruments, their value, uses, etc. Numerous tables are given from various American and foreign authors and writers, exhibiting the temperature in various diseases. Among these are Dr. Joseph Jones' in 'Yellow Fever,' where the temperature is cited in two cases which terminated fatally at 110°. The illustrations, temperature charts, etc., are eighty-four in number, and are very handsomely executed. We cordially commend the work to our readers as a highly valuable contribution to the study and cultivation of the most important aid to diagnosis (after auscultation and percussion), now specially claiming and rewarding the attention of physicians."—Charleston Medical Journal and Review.

A Weekly Journal of Medicine and Surgery.

Edited by GEORGE F. SHRADY, A.M., M.D.

Price, $5.00 a Year.

The Medical Record has for years been the leading organ of the medical profession in America, and has gained a world-wide reputation as the recognized medium of intercommunication between the profession throughout the world. It is intended to be in every respect a medical newspaper, and contains among its Original Articles many of the most important contributions to medical literature. The busy practitioner will find among the Therapeutic Hints and in the Clinical Department a large fund of practical matter, carefully condensed and exceedingly interesting. Medical News from all parts of the world is supplied through special correspondents, by mail and telegraph; New Publications and Inventions are reviewed and described; and in the Editorial Department matters of current interest are discussed in a manner which has established the Medical Record in the estimation of the whole profession as a thoroughly independent journal and the most influential publication of its class.

THE AMERICAN JOURNAL OF OBSTETRICS

AND DISEASES OF WOMEN AND CHILDREN.

Price, $5.00 a Year (Issued Monthly).

This journal, while, in a broad sense, special, gives particular attention to branches which, more than all others, go to form the everyday experience of the general practitioner. Its scope of usefulness is therefore very wide.

The original articles appearing in its pages are selected with a view to their practical value and general interest, and include many contributions from writers of wide celebrity and established reputation.

The Journal is not the organ of any society, being entirely independent, and consequently free to select for publication only such matter as will be most useful to its subscribers.

Society Proceedings, Book Reviews, and Abstracts of current literature in its scope are carefully prepared features which aid to the completeness of the Journal.

In order to add to its usefulness and attractiveness, special attention is given to the matter of illustrations, and all articles admitting of it are copiously illustrated by every available means.

Lithographic and other plates are frequently introduced, and add immensely to the usefulness and beauty of the Journal. In fact, the Journal is presented in a form of typographical excellence unequalled by any other medical journal.

A specimen copy will be sent free, if desired.

SPECIALTIES IN THE PRACTICE OF MEDICINE.

The activity during the past ten years in the publication of works upon general medicine and surgery has been very great, and many most valuable books have been issued—works which will for many years to come maintain their positions as acknowledged authorities upon the subjects of which they treat. Especially notable among these are such exhaustive works as "THE REFERENCE HAND-BOOK OF THE MEDICAL SCIENCES," and "THE INTERNATIONAL ENCYCLOPÆDIA OF SURGERY," both of which, revised from time to time, are to be kept fully abreast with the most recent investigations.

No attempt, however, has heretofore been made to furnish the practitioners of America with a series of books complete in textual contents, and by authoritative authors, upon all the

SPECIALTIES IN THE PRACTICE OF MEDICINE.

In the more restricted fields of medical practice no publications have met with such favor at the hands of the profession as the ENCYCLOPÆDIA OF OBSTETRICS AND GYNÆCOLOGY, and the superb ATLAS OF VENEREAL AND SKIN DISEASES, edited by Dr. Morrow.

The markedly favorable reception accorded by the medical profession to the above "Special Works"—the initial in a new series of publications—has been a source of gratification to the publishers, and leads them now to make formal announcement of their forthcoming enterprise.

Four Royal Octavo Volumes of from Six to Eight Hundred Pages each, Magnificently Illustrated, have been already provided,

GENERAL INDEX TO ZIEMSSEN'S CYCLOPÆDIA

Nine Hundred and Ninety-Eight Columns of References to DISEASES—THEIR COMPLICATIONS AND REMEDIES.

It has long been felt by subscribers to this publication that a full and complete Index in one volume for the entire work is a necessity; in fact, it is almost impossible to avail one's self of the treasures of this great store-house of medical knowledge without such assistance. The publishers, recognizing this, have, during the past two years, employed several competent gentlemen, under the supervision of the able editor of the work, Dr. Buck, to prepare a complete and thorough Index which should cover every point of possible interest in the cyclopædia; wholly independent of, and based upon a different system from the indices of the several volumes. The result has astonished even those best acquainted with Ziemssen's Cyclopædia—its richness as a great and standard work of reference has been brought out in the clearest manner.

No one possessing the work can at all afford to be without the General Index.

It will also be apparent that this Indexical volume furnishes, directly, the largest amount of suggestive information in regard to Diseases, and their complications, and indirectly to Remedies—their uses, their actions, and their effects—obtainable from any one source—or any one volume ever published.

IN THIS RESPECT IT STANDS UNIQUE AND ALONE.

PHYSIOLOGICAL AND TOXIC ACTION, MEDICINAL VALUE, METHODS OF ADMINISTRATION, AND DOSES OF THE DRUGS AND PREPARATIONS in the Latest Edition of the UNITED STATES PHARMACOPŒIA (Apothecaries' and Metric System), with some Remarks on UNOFFICIAL PREPARATIONS.

BY ROBERT T. EDES, A.B., M.D. (Harvard).

☞ It has been his aim to show, as succinctly as is consistent with clearness, what each drug can do in the treatment of disease, what it MAY do if not carefully used, and how far the various preparations are fitted to display its remedial powers.

☞ It is hoped that this book will be found by the physician a trustworthy guide in utilizing the agencies which the Pharmacopœia places in his hands, and by the pharmacist a brief and intelligible statement of what may be expected from the substance he dispenses.

"We cordially recommend the work to all Practitioners."

WOOD'S

MEDICAL AND SURGICAL MONOGRAPHS.

CONSISTING OF

Original Treatises, and of Complete Reproductions, in English, of Books and Monographs selected from the latest literature of foreign countries, with all illustrations, etc.

In typographical excellence, paper, and binding, these volumes are examples of the highest class, and present novel and attractive features never before introduced into medical literature.

It has been the endeavor of careful and discriminating Editors to select from the very numerous original manuscripts offered to the house, and the great number of monographs constantly appearing abroad, such as, from the timeliness of their subjects, the standing of their authors, as well as the excellence of their matter, insure their value and interest to the greatest number of readers.

It is believed that the more intimate acquaintance which the general practitioner will, by this means, be able to gain with the work of his contemporaries will tend not only to keep him more closely abreast with the general progress of science, but afford him an insight into many of the details of scientific investigation, which at present comes to him only as an abstract, filtered, perhaps, through a mind in little sympathy with him or his work, and often affording enough only to interest and disappoint him from his inability to read the original and draw his own conclusions.

Wood's Medical and Surgical Monographs are bound in muslin, sheep, and half morocco.

The subscription price is, in muslin binding, $3.00 a volume; sheep, $4.00 a volume; half morocco, $5.00 a volume, payable on delivery.

A complete list of the Monographs is ready, and will be sent to any address on application.

TELEGRAPHIC CODE.

To facilitate ordering our goods by telegraph, a code word has been provided for every number in this catalogue.

This code word or cipher is printed in Italics, and will be found at the end of the technical description of every line.

These ciphers have been taken from the well-known "Whitelaw Telegraphic Code," published in London in 1879, a work prepared by one familiar with the difficulties of telegraphy, and in the selection of words care has been taken to use only those in which the possibility of transposition in transmission is reduced to a minimum.

By the use of these words a message reading "Freight" (or express) "Fifty attorn," will convey to us that the sender wishes 50 copies of our Teacher's Bible No. 1981 by his usual Freight Route (or by express, as the case may be).

If any Bible is wanted with Denison's COMPLETE Improved Patent Index on the edge, add "Patent" to the word indicating the number.

If any Bible is wanted with Denison's CONDENSED Patent Index on the edge, add "Condensed" to the word indicating the number.

It cannot be too carefully borne in mind that DISTINCT WRITING is indispensable to correct telegraphing.

Respectfully,

Jacob's present. GENESIS, XXXII. His name changed.

AND Jacob went on his way, and the angels of God met him.
2 And when Jacob saw them, he said, This is God's host: and he called the name of that place Mahanaim.
3 And Jacob sent messengers before him to Esau his brother unto the land of Seir, the country of Edom.
4 And he commanded them, saying, Thus shall ye speak unto my lord Esau; Thy servant Jacob saith thus, I have sojourned with Laban, and stayed there until now:
5 And I have oxen, and asses, flocks, and menservants, and womenservants: and I have sent to tell my lord, that I may find grace in thy sight.

19 And so commanded he the second, and the third, and all that followed the droves, saying, On this manner shall ye speak unto Esau, when ye find him.
20 And say ye moreover, Behold, thy servant Jacob is behind us. For he said, I will appease him with the present that goeth before me, and afterward I will see his face; peradventure he will accept of me.
21 So went the present over before him: and himself lodged that night in the company.
22 And he rose up that night, and took his two wives, and his two womenservants, and his eleven sons, and passed over the ford Jabbok.

To the chief Musician upon Muth-labben, A Psalm of David.

I WILL praise thee, O LORD, with my whole heart; I will shew forth all thy marvellous works.

NOW there cried a certain woman of the wives of the sons of the prophets unto Elisha, saying, Thy servant my husband is dead; and thou knowest that thy servant did fear the LORD: and the creditor is come to take unto him my two sons to be bondmen.

2 And Elisha said unto her, What shall I do for thee? tell me, what hast thou in the house? And she said, Thine handmaid hath not any thing in the house, save a pot of oil.

3 Then he said, Go, borrow thee vessels abroad of all thy neighbours, even empty

20 And when he had taken him, and brought him to his mother, he sat on her knees till noon, and then died.

21 And she went up, and laid him on the bed of the man of God, and shut the door upon him, and went out.

22 And she called unto her husband, and said, Send me, I pray thee, one of the young men, and one of the asses, that I may run to the man of God, and come again.

The judgment of EZEKIEL, mount Seir.

CHAPTER XXXV.

The judgment of mount Seir for their hatred of Israel.

MOREOVER the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, set thy face against mount Seir, and prophesy against it,

3 And say unto it, Thus saith the Lord GOD; Behold, O mount Seir, I am against thee, and I will stretch out mine hand against thee, and I will make thee most desolate.

4 I will lay thy cities waste, and boasted against me, and have multiplied your words against me: I have heard them.

14 Thus saith the Lord GOD; When the whole earth rejoiceth, I will make thee desolate.

15 As thou didst rejoice at the inheritance of the house of Israel, because it was desolate, so will I do unto thee: thou shalt be desolate, O mount Seir, and all Idumea, even all of it: and they shall know that I am the LORD.

CHAPTER 40.

1 The promulgation of the gospel. 3 The preaching of John Baptist. 9 The preaching of the apostles. 12 The prophet by the omnipotency of God, 18 and his incomparableness, 26 comforteth the people.

COMFORT ye, comfort ye my people, saith your God.

2 Speak ye comfortably to Jerusalem, and cry unto her, that her warfare is accomplished, that her iniquity is pardoned: for she hath received of the LORD's hand double for all her sins.

3 The voice of him that crieth in the wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the LORD, make straight in the desert a highway for our God.

4 Every valley shall be exalted, and every mountain and hill shall be made low: and the crooked shall be made straight, and the rough places plain:

5 And the glory of the LORD shall be revealed, and all flesh shall see it together: for the mouth of the LORD hath spoken it.

6 The voice said, Cry. And he said, What shall I cry? All flesh is grass, and all the goodliness thereof is as the flower of the field:

7 The grass withereth, the flower fadeth: because the spirit of the LORD bloweth upon it: surely the people is grass.

8 The grass withereth, the flower fadeth: but the word of our God shall stand for ever.

9 O Zion, that bringest good tidings, get thee up into the high mountain; O Jerusalem, that bringest good tidings, lift up thy voice with strength; lift it up, be not afraid; say unto the cities of Judah, Behold your God!

10 Behold, the Lord GOD will come with strong hand, and his arm shall rule for him: behold, his reward is with him, and his work before him.

11 He shall feed his flock like a shepherd: he shall gather the lambs with his arm, and carry them in his bosom, and shall gently lead those that are with young.

12 ¶ Who hath measured the waters in the hollow of his hand, and meted out heaven with the span, and comprehended the dust of the earth in a measure, and weighed the mountains in scales, and the hills in a balance?

13 Who hath directed the Spirit of the LORD, or being his counsellor hath taught him?

This is the most comprehensive and valuable edition of the Holy Bible ever brought within the compass of a portable volume.

"It is called the 'Variorum' Bible because, in addition to the common English version of the Scriptures, with copious References, it shows at the bottom of each page: 1. All corrections of the text which have been suggested by the great historic translations, critical scholars, and commentators, from the earliest times to the present day. 2. All improved Readings or Translations, from the best scholars of all ages. The result of these vast labors of the most competent and devoted Biblical students are expressed in English, briefly and clearly, by a simple system of references that anybody can use, so that we have under the eye at once the ripe fruit of all that has been done through the centuries to enable the English student of to-day to examine carefully, and understand intelligently, the Word of God. The scholars, critics, commentators, etc., are indicated by symbols or initials, which enable the student to compare their judgments, estimate their value, and search further in their works if he wishes so to do. . . . As an English Bible this work is simply matchless."—Rev. LEMUEL MOSS, D.D. The Ensign, March 20, 1890.

"It is typographically a bit of fine art; it is for the casual and the critical reader of the Bible who desires to be to any degree critical, an invaluable help. It deserves a wide circulation."
—Bishop JOHN H. VINCENT, Buffalo, N. Y.

"This edition of the Bible, which is the fruits of a prodigious amount of labor, is an invaluable help to thoughtful and studious readers of the sacred volume."
—Professor GEORGE P. FISHER, D.D., Yale College.

"The New Variorum Bible is the most useful Bible now in existence. The Old Testament Variorum Readings, with the names of experts attached, is worth vastly more than the Revised Version, with its indefinite references to authorities of various kinds."
—Professor A. C. BRIGGS, Union Theological Seminary, New York.

"Of course, it goes without saying that the Variorum is esteemed by us all the most scholarly, most helpful, and most complete of all Bibles. I think no other even compares to it. And the large print reference edition ought to place it in hands which the teacher's edition could not reach."
—Professor B. B. WARFIELD, Princeton University.

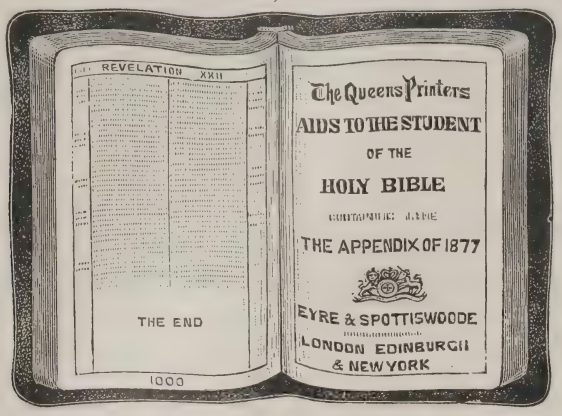
THE EYRE & SPOTTISWOODE TEACHER'S BIBLES.

The Original, The Best, The Most Complete.



FOUR SIZES, TWELVE DISTINCT EDITIONS.

Over 1,500,000 Copies of these Bibles Have Been Sold.

The great success of this Bible, published in May, 1875, proved that the project had met a public need. It is now necessary to point out that it was at least 16 months after the above date that a Bible closely following the model of the Eyre & Spottiswoode's Teacher's Bible was issued from the Oxford University Press, bearing on its title page The S. S. Teacher's Edition, as this book is erroneously regarded and often represented as the contemporary or even the predecessor of the Eyre & Spottiswoode Teacher's Bible.

Imitation of the leading features of this Book by rival houses is the best testimony to its essential superiority. After critical comparison with the competing Bibles of other publishers, this edition was adopted by the two great English Societies, the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge and the Religious Tract Society.

This Bible, with the AIDS, makes the most complete and reliable volume of Bible lore ever offered. Some of the more prominent articles are:

SUMMARY AND ANALYSIS of each BOOK of the OLD and NEW TESTAMENT. By Revs. Stanley Leathes and W. Sanday.

HISTORICAL EPITOME; or, Chronological Arrangement of the Bible. By Rev. P. Thomson.

THE MUSIC OF THE BIBLE. By Dr. T. Stainer.

POETRY OF THE BIBLE. By Rev. T. K. Cheyne.

INDEX to the PERSONS, PLACES, and SUBJECTS of the BIBLE (16,000 references).

CONCORDANCE of BIBLE WORDS, with their context (above 40,000 references).

COPYRIGHT MAPS (6) Double Page, from Recent Surveys, Indexed on a New Plan, etc.

A FEW TESTIMONIALS

TO

THE SUPERIOR EXCELLENCE OF THE EYRE & SPOTTISWOODE TEACHER'S BIBLE.

The Standard, Chicago.—"A mass of information forming a library in itself. . . . With every feature a teacher needs for practical use."

Rev. H. Clay Trumbull, DD., in the Sunday-School Times.—"They contain valuable 'Helps' not supplied in other editions; . . . exceedingly convenient and instructive."

The Advance, Chicago.—"Just the thing to facilitate the profitable study of the Word."

The Interior, Chicago.—"To be fully appreciated it must be examined; . . . we do not see how it could be improved."

Our Bible Teacher, Dayton, O.—"We place it first in the relative value of its 'Helps.'"

Rev. Robert Lowry, D.D.—". . . Not only may be found in this volume the material which is common to all 'Teachers' Bibles,' but also a great mass of information, geographical, ethical, exegetical, analytical, written by scholars and specialists, which is not included in any volume of similar character. . . . Eyre & Spottiswoode have done us a great service in giving us such a treasure as this 'Teacher's Bible.'"

The Venerable Archdeacon Farrar.—"The Book, as now completed, presents the best and most recent results of Biblical research in the smallest possible compass. . . . A Bible rich in information, which could only be gathered from a multitude of learned and expensive books, and from which even the most advanced scholar will still find something to learn."

Rev. Dr. Edersheim.—"It is certainly the best, most complete, and useful which has hitherto appeared."

Dean of St. Paul's.—"A wonderful digest of learning. The names of the various scholars are, of course, a warrant of care and accuracy, and certainly nothing so complete and comprehensive, in such a compass, has ever before been attempted."

Rev. Joseph Parker, D.D.—"I have examined your Bible with great care. It is quite as valuable for preachers and hearers as for teachers and scholars. It is almost a library in itself, containing everything that is immediately needed for the elucidation of the sacred text. I cannot imagine how this Bible can be improved in any important particular."

The Late Archbishop Trench.—"Marvellously full of interesting and accurate information."

Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.—"It is a singularly useful edition."

The Journal and Messenger, Cincinnati, O.—"The Eyre & Spottiswoode Bible we regard as the best published. And this we say as the result of a very careful examination of the various Teacher's Bibles submitted for our inspection."

The Sunday-School Times.—"The London [Eyre & Spottiswoode] Bibles are admirable in matter and form and make-up. Their range is wide and their quality excellent. In some particulars, especially in the chronological tables and summaries, they are entitled to the first place."

The Church Quarterly.—"Never, we think, has so much useful matter been condensed into so wonderfully small a space. A monument of well-intentioned zeal and well-directed skill."

The Baptist.—"Quite a wonderful compendium of Biblical information. No Sunday-school teacher should be without it."

The Evangelical Messenger, Cleveland.—"We know of nothing that is at all equal to it, . . . specially serviceable for Sunday-school teachers."

The Graphic, London.—"When such names as Cheyne and Sayce are associated with a work there is no need to enlarge upon its value and completeness. To the teacher the book is invaluable; without it, he must refer to several volumes to prepare his lessons; with it, he finds between the two covers all he requires very correctly stated and very suggestively."

The Academy.—"The Queen's printers have gone the right way to produce a valuable book. They have selected for treatment important subjects, and then intrusted them to the hands of always trustworthy and eminent specialists. Thus we have admirable papers. The price of the book brings it within the reach of all persons."

The Rock.—"A mere perusal of the table of contents will show no other work can pretend to offer such assistance. Supersedes all other one-volume Bibles."

I. W. Walton of the Y. M. C. A.'s of Ohio.—"I believe that for the use of Sunday-school teachers and active members of the Y. M. C. A. they are not only unexcelled, . . . but have no equals. . . . A library of rare, choice, and practical information which no Bible student should miss."

Rev. Frederick W. Farrar, D.D.—"He who has mastered all these papers may know more of the sources to which we look for the elucidation of Holy Writ than many would have gained by life-long labor in less fortunate times."

The Christian.—"The 'Aids to the Student,' published by Eyre & Spottiswoode, are beyond comparison more trustworthy and more complete than any other similar book."

CHAPTER XXXV.

The judgment of mount Seir for their hatred of Israel.

MOREOVER the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,
2 Son of man, set thy face against mount Seir, and prophesy against it,
3 And say unto it, Thus saith the Lord GOD; Behold, O mount Seir, I am against thee, and I will stretch out mine hand against thee, and I will make thee most desolate.
4 I will lay thy cities waste, and boasted against me, and have multiplied your words against me: I have heard them.
14 Thus saith the Lord GOD; When the whole earth rejoiceth, I will make thee desolate.
15 As thou didst rejoice at the inheritance of the house of Israel, because it was desolate, so will I do unto thee: thou shalt be desolate, O mount Seir, and all Idumea, even all of it: and they shall know that I am the LORD.

11 Then the Jews sought him at the feast, and said, Where is he?

MORNING PRAYER. 11

To give knowledge of salvation unto his people : for the remission of their sins,

Through the tender mercy of our God: whereby the day-spring from on high hath visited us;

To give light to them that sit in darkness, and in the shadow of death : and to guide our feet into the way of peace.

¶ Or this Psalm.

Jubilate Deo. Psalm c.

O BE joyful in the LORD, all ye lands : serve the LORD with gladness, and come before his presence with a song.

Be ye sure that the LORD he is God; it is he that hath made us, and not we ourselves : we are his people, and the sheep of his pasture.

O go your way into his gates with thanksgiving, and into his courts with praise : be thankful unto him, and speak good of his Name.

For the LORD is gracious, his mercy is everlasting : and his truth endureth from generation to generation.

¶ Then shall be said the Apostles' Creed by the Minister and the People, standing. And any Churches may, instead of the words, He descended into hell, use the words, He went into the place of departed spirits, which are considered as words of the same meaning in the Creed.

I BELIEVE in God the Father Almighty, Maker of heaven and earth:

And in Jesus Christ his only Son our Lord: Who was conceived by the Holy Ghost, Born of the Virgin Mary: Suffered under Pontius Pilate, Was crucified, dead, and buried: He descended into hell; The third day he rose again from the dead: He ascended into heaven, And sitteth on the right hand of God the Father Almighty: From thence he shall come to judge the quick and the dead.

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son, and to the Holy Ghost;

Answer. As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be, world without end. Amen.

Minister. Praise ye the Lord.

Let us come before his presence with thanksgiving: and show ourselves glad in him with psalms.

For the LORD is a great God: and a great King above all gods.

In his hand are all the corners of the earth: and the strength of the hills is his also.

The sea is his, and he made it: and his hands prepared the dry land.

O come, let us worship and fall down: and kneel before the LORD our Maker.

For he is the Lord our God: and we are the people of his pasture, and the sheep of his hand.

O worship the LORD in the beauty of holiness: let the whole earth stand in awe of him.

For he cometh, for he cometh to judge the earth: and with righteousness to judge the world, and the people with his truth.

Awake, awake; put on thy strength, O Zion; put on thy beautiful garments, O Jerusalem. Isaiah lii. 1.

Seeing that we have a great High Priest, that is passed into the heavens, Jesus the Son of God, let us come boldly unto the throne of grace, that we may obtain mercy, and find grace to help in time of need. Heb. iv. 14, 16. Ascension.

Because ye are sons, God hath sent forth the Spirit of his Son into your hearts, crying, Abba, Father. Gal. iv. 6. Whitsunday.

There is a river, the streams whereof shall make glad the city of God, the holy place of the tabernacles of the Most High. Psalm xlvi. 4.

The hour cometh, and now is, when the true worshippers shall worship the Father in spirit and in truth. St. John iv. 23.

214 BURIAL OF THE DEAD. 7s.

247

SAVIOUR, for the little one,
Safely gathered in Thine arms,
Ere the battle had begun,
Victor, spared from war's alarms,
We who toil and struggle sing
Praise to Thee, the children's King.

2 First of all Thy martyr-band,
Infants for Thy sake were slain;
Day by day, from every land,
Infants swell the guileless train,
Who, this vale of tears untrod,
Stand before the throne of God.

3 Thou dost give and take away,
Full of love, in all Thy ways:
Be each mourner's heart to-day
Full of loving trust and praise,
In the midst of grief to bring
Thanks to Thee, the children's King.

248 7.8.7.8.7.7.

TENDER Shepherd, Thou hast stilled
Now Thy little lamb's brief weeping:
Ah, how peaceful, pale, and mild
In its narrow bed 'tis sleeping!
And no sigh of anguish sore
Heaves that little bosom more.

2 In this world of care and pain,
Lord, Thou wouldst no longer leave it;
To the sunny heavenly plain
Thou dost now with joy receive it;
Clothed in robes of spotless white,
Now it dwells with Thee in light.

386 GENERAL.

429 C. M.

MY God, accept my heart this day,
And make it always Thine,
That I from Thee no more may stray,
No more from Thee decline.

2 Before the cross of Him Who died,
Behold, I prostrate fall;
Let every sin be crucified,
And Christ be all in all.

3 Anoint me with Thy heavenly grace
And seal me for Thine own;
That I may see Thy glorious face,
And worship near Thy throne.

4 Let every thought, and work, and word,
To Thee be ever given;
Then life shall be Thy service, Lord,
And death the gate of heaven!

430 L. M.

JESU, Thou joy of loving hearts!
Thou Fount of life! Thou Light of men!
From the best bliss that earth imparts
We turn unfilled to Thee again.

2 Thy truth unchanged hath ever stood;
Thou savest those that on Thee call;
To them that seek Thee, Thou art good,
To them that find Thee, all in all.

3 We taste Thee, O Thou living Bread!
And long to feast upon Thee still;
We drink of Thee, the Fountain Head,
And thirst from Thee our souls to fill.

180 THE CHURCH—CONFIRMATION.

213 7s.

HOLY Spirit, Lord of love,
Thou Who camest from above,
Gifts of blessing to bestow
On Thy waiting Church below;
Once again in love draw near
To Thy children gathered here.

2 From their bright baptismal day,
Through their childhood's onward way,
Thou hast been their constant guide,
Watching ever by their side;
May they now till life shall end,

THE CHURCH—MISSIONS. 217

258 8.7.

LORD, a Saviour's love displaying,
Show the heathen lands Thy way;
Thousands still like sheep are straying
In the dark and cloudy day.

2 Shades of death are gathering o'er them,
Lord, they perish from Thy sight!
Let Thine angel go before them;
Bring the Gentiles to Thy light.

3 Fetch them home from every nation,
From the islands of the sea;
By the word of Thy salvation

THE NEW HYMNAL WITH MUSIC.

Ready about July 15th, printed on good paper, and strongly bound in three styles.

The Hymnal

REVISED AND ENLARGED

AS ADOPTED BY THE GENERAL CONVENTION OF THE PROTESTANT EPISCOPAL CHURCH IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA IN THE YEAR OF OUR LORD 1892

WITH MUSIC

As used in Trinity Church

NEW YORK

EDITED BY

A. H. MESSITER, Mus. Doc.

ORGANIST OF TRINITY CHURCH, NEW YORK

Dr. Messiter stands well amongst our foremost Composers, Organists, and Choir Instructors in the matters of skill, reverence, and churchly ways, and is eminently fitted for the work which he has, for nearly three years, been engaged in—the editing of this musical Hymnal.

This book is no hasty production, and we lay it before the Church in the confident expectation that its merits will be recognized by musical experts, and that it will be received as a boon to the cause of decent, reverent, churchly rendering of the Hymns set forth by the Church for her services, as well as a successful effort to "suppress all light and unseemly music," and to supply what is best, and what will tend to promote devoutness and earnestness in the "Service of Song."

The book will contain about 790 pages; exceptional care has been taken in proof-reading, etc., to make the typography of the book both correct and handsome.

WILL BE SUPPLIED IN THE FOLLOWING STYLES:

CLOTH, white edge	$1 50
EXTRA CLOTH, gilt edge, sewed flexible on tape (will lie open flat when in use on organ or piano)	2 00
RED TURKEY MOROCCO, gilt edge, sewed flexible	3 50

FIRST LESSONS in the STUDY OF INSECTS.

By John Henry Comstock, Professor of Entomology in Cornell University and in Leland Stanford Junior University, and Anna Botsford Comstock.

This work is prepared to meet the needs of teachers and pupils in the secondary schools and of elementary classes in agricultural colleges. It is profusely illustrated with original engravings by the junior author. It consists of two parts. In Part I. is given a series of carefully graded lessons on the structure and classification of insects and on the methods of collecting and preparing specimens. Part II. is a systematic discussion of the characteristics of the orders of insects and of the principal families, with analytical keys for separating the families. Particular attention is paid to the habits of representative species. The chief object of the authors has been to awaken an interest in the subject, and to enable teachers who have not had training in entomological methods and observation to prepare themselves to teach this subject.

The work is now in press and will be published early in the autumn, at which time the price will be announced. Address

Quoted in Congress and by Writers as Authority.

A Short Tariff History of the United States, from 1783 to 1789.

One vol., 12mo, cloth, with copious index, Price, $1.00.

A Point-Blank Refutation of the Claim in the Democratic National Platform of 1892 that "the Federal Government h s no Constitutional Power to Impose and Collect Tariff Duties, except for the Purpose of Revenue only."

This book brings out prominently these historical facts:

FIRST, That the American people tried almost absolute Free Trade for six years, or from 1783 to 1789, and that its extremely disastrous operation brought the Confederation of that period to the verge of anarchy.

SECOND, That, in consequence of that bitter experience, the present Union was formed, under the present Constitution, principally to enable Congress to protect home industry, by duties on imports and by navigation laws.

THIRD, That the Federal Convention, in framing the Constitution, granted to Congress both the Revenue Power and the Protecting Power, and that the purpose of revenue was alien to the latter; so much so, indeed, that "a tariff for revenue only" would be a defeat of the meaning and intent of that power.

The Profession of Bookselling,

A Handbook of Practical Hints for the Apprentice and Bookseller.

By A. GROWOLL,
Managing Editor of "The Publishers' Weekly."

"The author has collected a stupendous mass of information on his subject, and manages to impart his knowledge with admirable brevity and clearness. . . . It treats of everything that he ought to know, and of most things in which he can be even remotely interested. . . . If accuracy and fulness of information avail, the young man who masters Mr. Growoll's book can scarcely help making his mark in the world."—London Publishers' Circular.

"A volume, attractively printed, that deserves a place among reference-books by reason of its bibliography. Here are lists of works fitted to impart to the bookseller (and to the general reader) a general knowledge of the field of English and American literature, of Continental literature, of the classical and oriental, etc.; lists of trade catalogues, of library catalogues, of trade journals and literary journals; and a broad reference library. . . . For its main purpose this is an excellent manual."—The Nation.

"Booksellers in this country [England] will find this work both useful and entertaining."—London Bookman.

"We wish to give you our advance order for that most valuable series of articles—'The Profession of Bookselling'—and wish to thank you for publishing in book form one of the most useful tools the trade has had placed in its hands for a long time."—THE FIELD & GIBB BOOK AND STATIONERY CO., Lawrence, Kansas.

THE ANNUAL LITERARY INDEX.

INCLUDING PERIODICALS, AMERICAN AND ENGLISH, ESSAYS, BOOK-CHAPTERS, ETC., SPECIAL BIBLIOGRAPHIES AND NECROLOGY OF AUTHORS.

EDITED BY W. I. FLETCHER and R. R. BOWKER,

With the co-operation of members of the American Library Association and of the Library Journal staff.

THE ANNUAL LITERARY INDEX for 1892 is a new enterprise, complementing the "Annual American Catalogue" of books published in 1892 by indexing (1) articles in periodicals published in 1892 ; (2) essays and book-chapters in composite books of 1892 ; (3) authors of periodical articles and essays ; (4) special bibliographies of 1892 ; (5) authors deceased in 1892. The two volumes together make a complete record of the literary product of the year.

The new volume includes the features of the "Co-operative Index to Periodicals," originally a monthly supplement to the Library Journal, then extended into a quarterly in an enlarged form, and later issued as an annual volume.

THE ANNUAL LITERARY INDEX for 1892 forms the first supplement both to the new five-yearly volume (1887–1891) of Poole's Index to Periodical Literature and to the new A. L. A. Index to essays and book-chapters of Mr. Fletcher.

The new volume will more than fulfil the opinion as to the Co-operative Index expressed in the following extract :

"To the literary worker its value can hardly be over-estimated ; to the specialist in any branch of science or letters it is indispensable, since it places within his immediate reach many of the latest fruits of labor in the same field ; to every one who desires to be well informed it furnishes the means of making the most effective use of his time."—Providence Press.

Bound uniform with Poole's Index and the "A. L. A. Index," in one vol., cloth, $3.50.

☞ Early orders for the above are solicited.
